IN THE TEMPLE OF JUSTICE

September Court Now in Full Swing.

MANY CASES SETTLED

P. J. Donald, of Fleming, is Foreman of the Grand Jury—Chas. A. McClure Admitted to Practice Law at Centre County

JUDGE ELLIS L. ORVIS PRESIDING

The regular September term of Court convened on Monday morning at 10:30 with President Judge Ellis L. Orvis on the bench. After various petitions had been presented to the court and acted upon the report of the Constables were heard. The Grand Jury was then called and P. J. McDonald, of Fleming, was foreman of the Grand Jury. The usual charge to the Grand jurors was delivered by the Court.

On motion of Henry C. Quigley Esq., there was admitted to the bar of Centre County Chas. A. McClure, a son of James A. McClure of Bellefonte. Mr. McClure is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania Law School and we feel sure will be an ornament to the bar of Centre county. He is a bright young man.

George B. Waite, of Miles township, administrator of the Estate of Mary B. Waite, having repeatedly refused to file his account in this estate when ordered to do so by the Court was sent to jail for contempt of Court. This was a peculiar case as the man was given every opportunity to straighten things out and repeatedly refused to do so. His sentence is an indefinite one and he will stay there as long as the Court see's fit.

Quite a number of civil cases have been settled which will probably shorten this weeks session.

Monday afternoon the following cases were disposed of

Brown and Rodearmel vs George Kachik was the first case called on the civil list. This was a suit to recover for a bill of 5000 cigars. The plaintiff was represented by Gettig, Bower & Zerby and the defense by N. B. Spangler. On motion of counsel for defendant judgement of compulsory non-suit is allowed.

Dr. E. S. Dorworth vs Overseers of the Poor of Spring township. This was to recover a bill for medical attendance. A verdict for $54.32 in favor of plaintiff subject to the reserve question of law.

On the criminal list Earl Freeman plead guilty to the larceny of goods from D. T. Pierce of State College.

Commonwealth vs Wilkinson charged with larceny of goods from railroad station at Coburn. Defendant waived finding of Grand Jury and plead guilty.

The following cases were disposed of on Tuesday.

M. C. Gephart vs Reuben Etters, Appeal non-assumpsit; verdict for the plantiff in the sum of $68.03 with interest from Nov. 7th 1905.

Mifflinburg Buggy Company vs David Bailey, appeal non-assumpsit; settled and costs paid.

Sprout, Waldren & Co. vs David Bailey, appeal non-assumpsit; verdict for the plantiff in the sum of $37.50.

James B. Sliker vs John B. Wetzel non-assumpsit and payment with leave and set off; plantiff suffers a voluntary non-suit; defendant to file no bill.

John Williams vs Edward Hughes, appeal non-assumpsit; continued by agreement of both parties.

Com. vs Irwin Kerns, charge Illegal fishing; case continued to December term.

Com. vs Homer H. Brown, f and b case; continued to December term.

Com. vs Maggie Segner; assult and battery. Grand Jury returns true bill.

Com. vs Blanche Eckley, assault, prosecutrix Flora E. Young. Nolle prose entered and case settled.

Com. vs Joseph Wade Sr., assault; prosecutors Wm. S. Loffin and Lawrence Redding, defendant plead guilty.

Com. vs Robert Mann, charge assault prosecutrix, Julia Lucas. Case went to jury Tuesday afternoon; verdict, defendant not guilty but paid all the costs.

The Grand Jury returned true bills in following cases.

Com. vs John Poorman, charge betrayal; prosecutrix Mary Shope.

Com. vs Frederick Confer, charge betrayal; prosecutrix Lottie M. Hoover.

Com. vs Bruce Hettinger, betrayal; prosecutrix Martha Burrell.

Com. vs Bruce Auman, betrayal; prosecutrix Eva Wilson.

Com vs Wm. Casher, betrayal; prosecutrix Lizzie Zimmerman.

George B. Waite who was sentenced to jail on Monday for contempt of Court was released Tuesday aafternoon after making satisfactory arrangements in regard to the matter at issue.

HARRY HAZEL IS DEAD.

Passed Away at His Home at Niagara Falls Thursday Evening.

Just five months ago Friday Harry Hazel a former Bellefonte boy led Miss Mable Otto to the marriage altar and there made her his wife. Four months after the marriage, the young man was stricken down with typhoid fever and for four weeks he has been suffering from this disease. His wife and Mrs. Otto have been at his bedside constantly and have been doing all in their power with the assistance of the family physician and nurse to help the young man, but it seems as though God had other plans, so on Thursday evening about 7 o'clock he was called home to rest.

Harry Hazel was a young man with many excellent qualities, he was a perfect little gentleman and had lots of friends in Bellefonte who mourn his death. For quite a long time he was one the efficient clerks in Joseph Bros. & Co. store. He then went to Niagara Falls where he accepted a very good position in a large dry goods store. Harry Hazel was a christian young man, we can remember very clearly the night he went to the altar at the Methodist church and there in humble submission accepted Jesus Christ as his Saviour. A short time afterwards he united with the church. He was the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Hazel who live on Logan Street. He is about 20 years of age and leaves to mourn his death his loving wife, father and mother and the following brothers and sister: Thomas, George, Charley and Ida.

The funeral of Harry Hazel was very largely attended on Sunday afternoon. The services were conducted by Rev. James B. Stein of the Methodist church and Rev. Barry of the Lutheran church at the home of Thomas Hazel on Logan street. The choir composed of Mrs. Ardell, Mrs. Crawford, Miss Carrie Miller, Mr. Shuey and Mr. Smith sang very beautifully "Abide with Me," "My Jesus as thou Wilt," and "Asleep in Jesus." The body rested in a handsome silver gray casket. Many very pretty floral pieces were sent by loving friends.

The casket bearers were Messrs. Frank Bartly, Harry Alters, Morris Kramer Harry Clevinstine, Van Todon, and Harry Smith. Interment was made in the Cowdrick plot in the Union cemetery.

Reunion of 22nd Pa. Vol. Cavalry

The annual reunion of the 22nd Pa. Vol. Cavalry association will be held at Carlisle, Thursdays, Oct. 17, 1907, and all members and friends of the regiment, six months or three years, are cordially invited to attend. An excursion to the Gettysburg battlefield will probably be taken on the 18th. Excursion orders can be had upon application to Dr. A. R. McCarthy, Mount Union, Pa., secretary permitting the purchase of tickets at a two cent per mile rate good going Oct. 14 to 17, returning to Oct. 22 inclusive. If, however, the railroads adopt a two cent per mile rate on Oct. 1, there will be no need of sending card orders and the secretary will not then send any out, as the regular rate will be as low as the excursion rate. The regiment was made up largely of men from Bedford, Blair, Centre, Huntingdon, Mifflin, Fulton, Franklin, Adams and Cumberland counties. A large attendance is desired.

A Pleasant Time at the Gap.

A very enjoyable time was spent at Pleasant Gap, Sept. 22nd at the home of B. S. Miller, and wife. The occasion was a re-union of the family at which the following daughters and their husbands were present, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Wian, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Gebret, of Bellefonte, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Noll, of Pleasant Gap; and Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Fatkin, of Lewistown, Pa., also six of their grandchildren, and J. F. Swaney a brother, of Mrs. Miller and her sister Mrs. Maggie Raudenbush of Pleasant Gap. At the noon hour all sat down to a sumptuous repast to which all did ample justice. In the early evening the family party separated to return to their respective homes hoping to witness many more happy reunions of the family.

STATE COLLEGE A WINNER

1,500 Students Have Enrolled This Year and More are Rolling In

GOOD FOOT BALL TEAM

Most all of last years Strong Men Back to Help State Win Her Victories. More Students than ever Before.

GEN. BEAVER GIVES GOOD ADVICE.

Wednesday was registration day at the Pennsylvania State College. For the last four days the trains over the two roads have brought in hundreds of students from every section of Pennsylvania, Cuba and Porto Rico. The number of arrivals was so great that the situation was a serious one, so far as housing the men was concerned. The registration excelled all expectations and considerable difficulty was experienced in handling the large influx of students the first three days. The enrolment this year will be the largest in the history of the college, and will probably total 1,150. There is already 20 co eds enroiled in the new department—Home Economics—and the freshman class will number 400.

The college opened Thursday morning at eight o'clock with services in the Auditorium. Vice President Welsh presided.

The student body was addressed by Gen. James A. Beaver, president pro tem of the college. The subject of his address was "Men." In the course of his remarks he scored the sophomores for the hazing of their fellows and strongly intimated that such unmanly conduct was discouraged by the authorities of the institution. He wanted the students to be men in every sense of the word and as this year was to be the best in the history of the college, it behooved every student to utilize his efforts in the acquiring of that knowlege which would be of lasting benefit to him and his fellow man. The general's address was to the point and if each student would profit by the advice given, the seed will have been well sown.

NOTES.

Military drill was resumed Friday afternoon at four o'clock. Regular work in the military branch will begin on Monday at 6:30.

Gov. Stuart has been invited and will very probably accept, to review the regiment on Pennsylvania Day.

Dr. Jeffers, of York, will address the student body next Sunday morning, at 11 o'clock, in the Auditorium.

The co-eds are a fine looking body of students.

The faculty was warmly welcomed by the students at chapel exercises Thursday morning.

GETTING READY FOR THE INDIAN GAME.

State and Carlisle Indians meet on the Seminary Athleic field, in this city, on Saturday, October 5th for their annual football game. Football lovers in this section of the State look forward to this as one of the football treats of the season and a fine contest is always a certainty.

There is no doubt but that the Carlisle eleven will be up to the usual Carlisle standard. Among the returned players are Captain Antonio Lubo, Waseuka, Exendine, Gardner, Little Boy, Mount Pleasant, Schouchuk, Island, Little-Old-Man, Winney, Balenti and Long. Bowen, who was not a regular last year, may possibly make a strong candidate for a guard position. Both Wheeler and Schouchuk, the Esqumo, are light for center, to which each aspires and Coach Warner may possibly be compelled to utilize his heaviest player without regard for their experience.

The practice for the week has been very hard on the football candidates, notwithstanding their preparation by the summer's hard work. Glen S. Warner, the Indian coach, and his assistants, Johnson and Newman, have confined the practice to elementary tactics.

Newcomers who are showing promise of becoming eastern football stars are Peak, P. Houser, Payne and Lyon, the two McLean's who are cousins, are now attending the Carlisle school, and seem to be comers. Jordon and Round Stone are two new probabilities as line men, with G. Gardner, White, Penny, Long and Little-Old-Man, as former second team p'ryers, who will probably make the first team.

Captain Harry Burns now has a squad of more than fifty football candidates for the State College team hard at work at Beaver field getting in shape. So far the showing of the men is fully up to the standard and State's 1,000 undergraduates who arrived there this week are in high glee over the outlook for a very fast and strong eleven this fall.

Among the leaders now for the 'varsity team are Captain Burns, Maxwell, Ayers and Campbell for the ends, McCleary, Coulson, for half-backs; Hirshman, for fullback; Vorhis, quarterback Cyphers and Kunkle, as guards, all of the last year's team. The new men include Barnett, of the Johnstown High School, and Yeckley, of the DuBois High School, as halfbacks; Bailey, of Stroudsburg; McMahon, of Erie; Weaver, of Steelton; Zink, Arnold, Hand, Smith, of Mercersburg; Sloan and Harper, as candidates for tackle; Hollister, of Warren; candidates for guard; Johnson, of Steelton; and Gray of California Normal for center, with Haverstick, a candidate for quarterback. The above squad of twenty-four men have an average weight of 181 pounds.

To take the place of "Mother" Dunn at center there are several verg good candidates, but the most likely so far is Gray, of the California Normal. He weighs 195 pounds and is very active.

State's schedule is as follows:

Sept. 28th, Geneva College at State College.
Oct. 5th, Carlisle at Williamsport.
Oct. 12th, Grove City, at State College.
Oct. 19th, Cornell at Ithaca.
Oct. 26th, Marietta at State College.
Nov. 2nd, Dickinson at State College.
Nov. 9th, University of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia.
Nov. 16th Annapolis at Annapolis.
Nov. 23rd, West Virginia, at State College.
Nov. 28th, Western University of Pennsylvania at Pittsburg.

PASSED TO HIS REWARD.

Henry Kline a Highly Respected Citizen Passed Away.

On Saturday evening as the sun was sinking away in the far west, Henry Kline who had traveled life's pathway almost 83 years, laid down his life's work and entered into rest. Mr. Kline was a gentleman in every sense of the word, he always dealt with his fellowmen in an honest, honorable way, and for those reasons he was held in high esteem by all who knew him. In politics he was a staunch Democrat having voted this ticket since he was 21 years of age.

He was a consistant christian gentleman and always took an active part in church affairs. For over 66 years he has been a member of the Reformed church of Tusseyville. The funeral occurred Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. He leaves to mourn his death his loving wife Susan Clark Kline and the following children, Daniel, J. H., G. C., Mrs. Angeline Perks Mrs. Emma Tressler, of Bellefonte and Katharine Arvins of Cleveland, Ohio.

Col. E. R. Chambers for District Attorney.

Colonel E. R. Chambers, in his letter accepting the nomination for District Attorney, said, "The farmer who works from day light to late evening at hard labor in order to meet his living expenses, should not be forced to pay extra taxes for mistakes made in our criminal courts. Larency, burgulary and murder have run riot in our county of late, and if I am elected I pledge myself to brake this up and stop it without unnecessary expense to the tax-payer.'

He is acknowledged to be the criminal lawyer in this county. Will you vote for him?

Mild Winter Predicted.

John Peterman, the hornet nest weather prophet of Butler county predicts a mild winter from the fact that hornets are building their nests high in the air. The hornets in some way get an inkling of the brand of weather to be dealt out during the following winter and if the signs are for severe cold they build on the ground where the snow drifts over them and protects the larvae from the cold. If they select a high place for their nest they prophecy an open winter. This same prognosticator further says: "The corn husks, too tell of a mild winter, the husks are thin and few.

REV. BARSHINGER THE PASTOR

The United Brethren Conference Closes on Sunday.

A SPLENDID MINISTER.

Rev. W. H. Spangler goes to Wilmore Pa. After a Large Meeting Sunday Evening The Conference Closes.

REV. BARSHINGER FROM WILLIAMSPORT

The 69 annual session of Allegheny Conference of the Church of United Brethren in Christ opened in the church in East End at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, Bishop Mills, D. D., LL., D., presiding. The bishop made a short address on "Christ's Non-Worry Policy," and then took up the organization of the conference. W. H. Spangler and W. G. Fulton were chosen secretarys and A. L. Boring, W. G. Stiverson, press committee. Other committeees were announced and the session closed.

At 1:30 A. L. Boring conducted devotions, followed by the business of the conference. J. I. L Ressler and G. W. Snerrick, presiding elders of the conference, read extended reports of the past year's work. The rest of the afternoon was taken up in hearing reports of pastors.

Rev. B. C. Shaw preached the annual conference sermon at 8 o'clock. A large and appreciative audience listened to his unfolding of the Scripture as recorded in John 15:7. Communion services in charge of the presiding elder followed. About sixty present and forty lay delegates are present today.

Sunday morning session of the Allegheny conference of the United Brethren church, was opened with devotional services in charge of the Rev. N. W. Burtner. These were followed by an address by Bishop Mills on "The Higher Criticism."

The call of the roll showed about seventy-five ministers and fifty lay delegates in attendance.

A resolution looking toward the minimum salary question was presented and referred to a committee composed of five ministers and five laymen. This movement looks toward an increase in salaries on many charges.

Bishop T. C. Carter, D. D., LL. D., of Chattanoonga, Tenn., was introduced to the conference. He made an excellent address in the course of which he told of the growth of the church in that state.

At the conclusion of the bishop's talk committee and pastor's reports occupied the rest of the morning session.

The afternoon devotions were in charge of the Rev. J. L. Leichliter.

The conference unanimously accepted the invitation extended it to hold its next annual meeting at Conamaugh.

The Conference Mutual Benefit association held its annual meeting during the afternoon, and the session was presided over by Rev. G. W. Sherrick, its president. The election for officers resulted in choosing of the present incumbents.

The committee on boundary presented its report and this provoked considerable discussion. The question of having one presiding elder district instead of two, was presented. There was much debate on this matter and when the question came to a vote the conference decided by a decisive majority for one presiding elder. On the third ballot the Rev. J. S. Fulton, of Wilkinsburg, was elected.

Rev. H. A. Buffington conducted the evening devotional services and these were followed by a platform meeting on "Soul Winning." Three addresses were made, Rev. S. Seese spoke on "Soul Winning in the Young People's Societies" Rev. T. Orner of "Soul Saving in the Revival Meeting," and Rev. I. P. Truxal, on "Soul Saying at Consecration Meeting."

REV. SPANGLER TRANSFERRED.

Rev. Spangler who has only been in our midst a year has proven himself to be a man chosen of God to do His work. We feel very sorry that he and his family are to leave us so soon. Mrs. Spangler will be greatly missed in the Temperance work as she was one of the most earnest of the White Ribboners. Wherever they go we wish them God speed and that they may ever be prosperous in winning of souls for the Master.

Rev. Barshinger the pastor for the United Brethren people comes from Williamsport and is said to be a great worker. Now it is up to the members of the church to get together and work shoulder to shoulder with their new minister and help him do the work which he has been called to do. No church in the world can prosper when the members are working again one another. We welcome Rev. Barshinger to Bellefonte and hope that his ministry here will be filled with a ripe harvest of many souls. Our new pastor was in Bellefonte today looking over the field and seems very well pleased with his appointment. We met him and found him to be an excellent gentleman, and feel sure that he will be successfull among our good people.

A partial list of the appointments are as follows,

Bellefonte—D. Barshinger.
Dunlevy—N. S. Bailey
Houserville—J. R. Miller.
New Brighton—A. Davidson.
Orbisonia—W. H. Blackburn.
Philipsburg—G. M. Fulton.
Wilmore—W. H. Spangler.

DR. PETER SWOPE ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

A well Known Physician of Julian at Death Door.

On Friday afternoon at four o'clock the little village of Julian was thrown into a tumult of excitment when the news was made known that Dr. Peter W. Swope a highly respected citizen of that place had attempted to take his own life.

Dr. Swope has been in feeble health lately and it is thought by his friends that his mind gave way and the rash act was committed while in this condition. He is a gentleman over 84 years of age. The ball entered his head a little below the temple and took a downward course. Dr. Thompson was called in and located the ball in the man's neck.

Dr. Swope is in a very critical condition and no hopes are entertained for his recovery. He has been unconscious since late late last night and this morning his whole right side became paralyzed. He has a wife and two daughters, and it is said he is in pretty fair circumstances financially.

Mrs. Mary F. Lesch

At 10:45 o'clock Sunday night Mrs. Mary F. Lesch, wife of Conrad Lesch, died at her home, 519 Willow avenue, of apoplexy. Her death was sudden, despite the fact that she had been ailing for the past two years. Sunday afternoon in company with several friends she visited Hollidaysburg, but returned home and attended services at the First Methodist Episcopal church. On returning home she went up stairs and shortly afterwards her husband hearing her moan went to see what had happened. He found her laying on the floor of the bathroom in an unconscious condition. She was removed to her room and Dr. Charles F. McBurney summoned but despite medical attention she passed away at the hour mentioned above. Deceased was a daughter of David deceased and Francis Solt and was born in Marion township Centre county, 56 years ago. She was married on December 22, 1874 and for the past four years had been a resident of the city. She was a member of the Trinity Reformed church and is survived by her mother and two sisters, Mrs. T. M. Barnhart and Mrs. A. L. Musser of Bellefonte. The funeral services were conducted at the house at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday evening and on Wednesday morning the remains were taken to Zion, Centre country for interment.—Altoona Tribune.

A List of Engagements.

The engagement of Miss Elizabeth Hazel and Mr. Harry Jackson has been announced. The wedding will occur sometime this fall.

Miss Mary Flack will be married early this fall to Mr. John O'Brien of Williamsport.

Other weddings announced to take place are Miss Mame Kelley and Mr. Christ Beezer, and Miss Mary Cole and Mr. Agustus Heverly.

An Expert Chemist.

Dairy and Food Commissioner Foust has sent to Prof William Frear, of the Pennsylvania State College, one of the leading pure food experts of the country samples of 75 brands of breakfast foods and other patent foods for analysis. Every brand from all over the United States was taken. Cornstalks are claimed to be used in some of the patent foods.

Miss Deakins' Dog.

By Philip Kean.

Copyrighted, 1907, by Homer Sprague.

"Jenks," said Miss Deakins, "don't go across the hall again."

Jenks flopped down on the door mat and sighed, canine fashion.

"You understand?" said Miss Deakins. Jenks wagged a disconsolate tail and closed his eyes.

"Very well," and Miss Deakins went in and shut the door, withdrawing from Jenks the vision of her trim figure, enveloped in a blue linen apron, down the front of which traveled splotches of paint.

Jenks, outside on the mat, heard a faint whistle and lifted one ear. Then he whined softly.

A door opened across the hall.

"Cut it and run, Jenksie," said a masculine voice.

Jenks yawned eagerly, but did not move.

"Come on," wheedled the man on the other door mat.

Jenks stood up and wagged his tail. There was a "get thee behind me, Satan," protest in his attitude, coupled with yielding.

And just then Miss Deakins opened her door.

"Were you calling my dog?" she demanded.

"Yes. You don't mind, do you?" The man came toward her as he said it. He wore a shabby velveteen coat, and the paint stains matched those on Miss Deakins' apron.

"I do mind," Miss Deakins assured him. "Jenks has been taught to lie on his mat until 12 o'clock. Then he has his lunch with me."

"Such beautiful regularity," murmured the man in the velveteen coat.

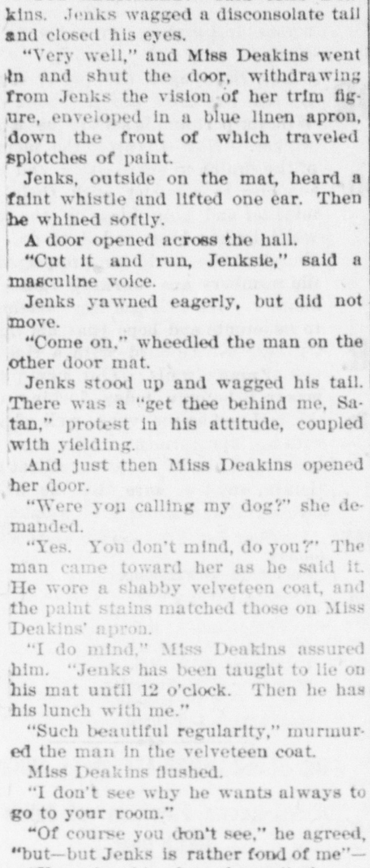
Miss Deakins flushed.

"I don't see why he wants always to go to your room."

"Of course you don't see," he agreed, "but—but Jenks is rather fond of me"—

"You give him ham bones," she accused him.

"I do. There are some people and some dogs to whom you have to give things in order to make them love you. Perhaps Jenks is not that kind of dog. Perhaps he may have a soul above



"THERE'S A FIRE ACROSS FROM MY WIN-

ham bones. Perhaps without ham bones Jenks might love me. Psychologically it's interesting, but I don't want to put it to the test. I value Jenks' affection too highly to seek the cause."

"I'm too busy," she reminded him, "to talk in the abstract. And I'd rather you didn't call Jenks."

"Very well," he said formally and went back to his room and shut the door.

Miss Deakins stood irresolutely on her door mat, with Jenks by her side, and looked at the closed door. There was red in her cheeks and there was a tremble in her voice as she said to the dog: "Come on, Jenks. I'm sorry you can't be trusted, but you can't."

And as they entered the shabby little room, lighted into whiteness and glare by a great skylight, she went on, "I don't believe I can trust anybody, not even a dog, Jenksie."

She painted all the afternoon, and as the twilight came on she sat and looked out over the roofs, and Jenks sat beside her with his cold nose in her hand, and when a big star shone over the top of the highest building she said, "I'm like the Miller of Dee, 'I care for nobody, no, not I, and nobody cares for me.'"

Just then there came a knock at the door. When she opened it no one was there, but on Jenks' mat was a bunch of lilacs, such as one buys at the corner stands.

As she filled all her bowls and vases Miss Deakin sang a little song, and before she finished there came another knock at the door.

"What were you singing?" asked the man from across the way.

"You know—the 'Spring Song,'" she told him icily.

"I have just painted a little picture of spring," he said ingratiatingly. "May I show it to you?"

It was a water color—just a stretch of young fields, with a sweep of orchard beyond, but it made her catch her breath.

"I can almost sniff the fragrance," was her impetuous comment. "It is beautiful."

"That is the way the world is looking outside the city," he said, with enthusiasm. "There are violets and pussy willows, and the birds are calling—let me take you out there tomorrow. It will do you good. You are so pale"—

She froze at that. "Certainly not," she refused and spoke with sternness to Jenks.

"Jenks," she said, "I told you not to cross the hall.

Jenks got up wearily from the opposite door mat.

"I don't see why you won't be friends," the painter said as he stood, irresolute, with his picture in his hand.

"I have my work, and nothing must interfere with my career."

"But we have lived opposite each other for six months."

"It would be the same if we had lived opposite each other for six years," was the way she closed the discussion.

More stars were out when she again sat with Jenks by the window and the moon flooded the world with light, but over the roofs she caught the glow of a different illumination, a red, murky glow, that flared up presently into flames and columns of rolling smoke.

"It's a fire, Jenks," she told the dog.

Jenks whined.

"It's down the street," was her further information, and then in a sudden panic, "It's in the next house, Jenksie."

With the dog close behind her she ran to the door. The hall was full of smoke. Through it she saw the man across the way.

"We can't get down," he said quickly. "The stairs are on fire, but there's a fire escape from my window."

He caught her in his arms, and before she could protest they were descending the ladder.

From the window above Jenks whined.

"Oh, we can't leave Jenks," she cried. "Let me go. Let me go." He held her firmly and called up to the dog, "Wait a minute, old boy, I'll be back."

When she was safe and looked up through the smoke to where the patient little animal was waiting she said: "Oh, if you should be killed. I is better that Jenks should—go"—

But he was already on the ladder.

She covered her eyes with her hands, and then she knew nothing until a shout went up and some one said, "He's got the dog."

There was another long interval, and then she felt something warm and wet on her cheeks, and there was Jenks licking her face, and she threw her arms about his neck and cried.

And presently she held out her hand to the man who had saved him and said in a weak little voice:

"He shall sit on your door mat all the time if you will let him."

"There isn't any door mat," he told her. "It's burned up. But I'll buy another"—

She smiled at that, and her eyes as they met his held in them all the promise of friendship and more than friendship that was to come.

Verdict for Dr. Pierce

AGAINST THE

Ladies' Home Journal.

Sending truth after a lie. It is an old maxim that "a lie will travel seven leagues while truth is getting its boots on," and no doubt hundreds of thousands of good people read the unwarranted and malicious attack upon Dr. R. V. Pierce and his "Favorite Prescription" published in the May (1904) number of the Ladies' Home Journal, with its great black display headings, who never saw the humble, groveling retraction, with its inconspicuous heading, published two months later. It was boldly charged in the slanderous and libelous article that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, for the cure of woman's weaknesses and ailments, contained alcohol and other harmful ingredients. Dr. Pierce promptly brought suit against the publishers of the Ladies' Home Journal, for $200,000.00 damages.

Dr. Pierce alleged that Mr. Bok, the editor, maliciously published the article containing such false and defamatory matter with the intent of injuring his business; furthermore, that no alcohol, or other injurious, or habit-forming, drugs are, or ever were, contained in his "Favorite Prescription"; that said medicine is made from native medicinal roots and contains no harmful ingredients whatever, and that Mr. Bok's malicious statements were wholly and absolutely false.

In the retraction printed by said Journal they were forced to acknowledge that they had obtained analyses of "Favorite Prescription," from eminent chemists, all of whom certified that it did not contain alcohol or any of the alleged harmful drugs.

These facts were also proven in the trial of the action in the Supreme Court. But the business of Dr. Pierce was greatly injured by the publication of the libelous article with its great display headings, while hundreds of thousands who read the wickedly defamatory article never saw the humble groveling retraction, set in small type and made as inconspicuous as possible. The matter was, however brought before a jury in the Supreme Court of New York State which promptly rendered a verdict in the Doctor's favor. Thus his traducers came to grief and their base slanders were refuted.

MURDERER'S WIFE SUING FOR DIVORCE

New York, September 19.—Mad with jealonely of the girl for whom he had given up his wife, Lieut. Julius Hoffman, late of the Austro-Hungarian army, with a revolver shot Miss Draga Siegel, his former colonel's daughter and heiress to a $100,000 estate, and then turned the weapon upon himself only to have the dying woman dash it from his hand, and receive another bullet, this time in the throat.

Hoffman, a handsome man of 34, is at the East Thirty-fifth street police station, apparently little better than a raving maniac. His wife is in West Virginia where she has a suit pending for divorce from her husband and $15,000 damages from Miss Siebel on the ground that the latter alienated Hoffman's affections.

Shot just over the heart, in the head and in the shoulder, Miss Siegel is dying in Bellevue hospital. "I loved Julius," she moans frequently, "but he wouldn't believe me."

Hoffman spent his early life, was married and met Miss Siegel, then a child in Croatia. Hoffman was embarrassed, however, by lack of funds to maintain his position and finally determined to resign and come to America.

About this time his superior officer, Col. Siegel, died, leaving his daughter Draga, an orphan. The latter was a friend of Hoffman's wife and by arrangement with the executor of her father's estate, accompanied them to this country. They arrived two years ago.

It was after their arrival here that Mrs. Hoffman became jealous of Miss Siegel and after a series of quarrels left home and began suit for divorce. Hoffman did not live in the same house with Miss Siegel but was much in her company and became furiously angry when he began to suspect that she cared more for another. Visiting her Wednesday night, he induced her to accompany him to his own boarding place and insisted that she tell the name of his supposed rival.

Miss Siegel said that this was purely an imaginary individual and even when Hoffman drawing the revolver threatened to kill her, mingled protestations of affection for himself with her prayers for mercy.

Highly Complimented.

The Marienville Express says that at the Forest County School Directors Association, held there recently, David F. Fortney, Esq. of Bellefonte, Pa., delivered five addresses on subjects that were both practical and useful to the School Director. The directors present were free in their commendation, not only of the benefit they received from the many helpful suggestions made by Mr. Fortney, but also of the earnest and forceful manner in which they were presented. Mr. Fortney is a veteran school director, having served in his own district for more than twenty-five consecutive years and in the hope of helping other directors, is offering his services as a speaker at the meetings of Directors, Associations, which are now authorized by law for the express purpose of consideration and discussion of questions pertaining to School Administration. For this work he is fully qualified, not only by actual services but by the careful study and consideration he has given to all questions that relate to the office of a school director. Superintendent Morrison was fortunate in securing Mr. Fortney's service for this meeting, and if the voluntary expression of the Directors is to be taken as a guide he should be engaged in this work every day in the week.

Bellefonte Elks to Organize.

The Bellefonte lodge Benevolent Protective Order of Elks will be instituted in this place the last week in September, they now being assured of getting their charter as the Lock Haven lodge on Tuesday evening voted favorably upon the application for same. The lodge will start out with seventy-six members and will occupy the Larimer building on High street, opposite the Court House, which they will have fitted up conveniently and comfortably.

Below we give a verbation copy of a bill of goods for a Militia Colonel's uniform, bought at Aaronsburg, Centre county, Pa., one hundred and five years ago.

This bill is interesting in that it is made in the unwieldy method of pounds, shillings and pence, in use in Pennsylvania at that time, to which the bill is a perfect key. The readers of The Republican are requested to find the value of each item in the bill, and the total in dollars and cents of the present standard in the United States and send them to the Daily News.

Resolutions Adopted by the Academy.

The following letter and resolutions of sympathy were recently sent by the students of the Bellefonte Academy to Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong and daughter of Pittsburg.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong and daughter:

The students of the Bellefonte Academy have passed the following resolutions of regret and sympathy because of the sad and untimely death of Frank who had won his way to the hearts of the teachers and scholars and many warm friends in Bellefonte by reason of his gentlemanly deportment, his interesting jollity and genial good nature.

WHEREAS God in His all wise but mysterious providence has sent the death summons to Frank Armstrong who for two years attended the Bellefonte Academy and during that time made a host of friends, and

WHEREAS at the opening of another school year we greatly miss the presence of him who was ever kind and courteous and exerted a cheering influence upon all with whom he associated, therefore,

Resolved that we feel profoundly sorrowful because of his sad and untimely death and the fact that we shall not enjoy his happy presence in school any longer and wish to express to his grief-stricken parents and sister our sincerest feelings of heart-felt sympathy.

Signed

REBECCA JACOBS,
WILLIAM LOUDEN,
CLYDE OBERLIN,

A very appreciative letter has been received by the students in which Mrs. Armstrong says that the resolutions will be engraved and framed.

Cannot use Antomatic Gun

As the hunting season is approaching it would be well for every hunter to secure a copy of the Game Fish and Forestry laws which Dr. Joseph Kalbfus secretary of the Game Commission at Harrisburg has just had issued. These law are very volumnous and intricate and should be studied carefully by the hunter before he ventures to throw a line or shoulder his gun to go to the field or forest.

In answer to many inquiries as to whether or not a hunter can use an automatic gun for the killing of game, we find that there is an act of Assembly which forbids the use of such gun. See act, May 31, 1907, P. L. 329., which provides a penalty of $50 for each offense or suffer an imprisonment in the common jail for a period of one day for each dollar of penalty imposed.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

The Coming Fair.

Few people in Centre county realize the fact that the Fair Association has been doing everything in its power to cater to the public taste in amusements as well as building up an annual exhibit that will be a benefit to all who see it. For years the Association has worked with only one purpose in view. That is to give the county such an annual outing as will be wholesome, moral and elevating. Inducements of every sort have been made to exhibitors with the result that the fair is gradually growing, and this year promises to be better than ever. While the partial failure of the fruit crop in the country might act against an increase in that department, which was a notable leader at the fair last year, yet it is hoped that the increased premiums offered this year will attract more exhibits to other departments.

The increase in the premiums offered in the premium books which are now being distributed is something that is already attracting attention. For instance the premiums for the exhibits of all kinds of horses, cattle and small stock have been doubled. The premiums for fruits and many articles in the general list have also ben doubled, so that the opportunity for the exhibitors to realize a nice return for their efforts to make a creditable display is just twice as great as it has ever been in the past.

Coupled with this radical increase in the premium awards comes the announcement that even the small games of chance will be excluded from the grounds. Heretofore the old fashioned paddle or fortune wheel which has been regarded as harmless enough to have a place in church faire, but under the new ruling even it will be excluded. This is all to be done with the idea of elevating and adding to the moral tone of the event. After considerable discussion it has been decided to try the experiment of dropping the free shows before the grandstand, and putting that money into the music. Acting along this line the management is now negotiating with the famous Repasz Band, of Williamsport, with the idea of having it there for the entire fair, giving morning and afternoon concerts.

While these changes are purely experimental, it is to be hoped that they are for the better, and it will remain to be seen whether they are. If the public approves there is only one way for it to express its approval and that is by attending the fair. If, this fall, the attendance shall reach the proportions of a record breaker, then the management will feel that the public demands a fair planned along the lines set forth. If not, the only conclusion to be drawn is that old plan wherein small shows and small games of chance were permissible, meets the most favor.

The prospects for racing are brighter now than they have been at this early season any year in the past. The track could not be in better condition than it is already, and competent judges expect to see exceptional time made during the meet. The poultry department which last year proved such a wonderful success because none but Centre county fowls were admitted, bids fair to be larger this year. The friendly rivalry that last year's exhibit occasioned has started a number of men who have been breeding fowls on a small scale to branch out more, with the result that they have found additional pleasure in their work, and at the same time put themselves in a position to win larger and more premiums. The grounds are about ready for the exhibition barring the annual coat of white which adds so much to the appearance of the buildings and fences, and that work will be begun this week, so that practically everything is in readiness for what is hoped will be the greatest fair Centre county has ever seen.

Make your plans accordingly.

Don't Think You're It.

Do not think that the world cannot get along without you. It can. It has revolved around the sun and turned on its axis for countless ages before you were born, and will continue to do so for many centuries after you are dead and forgotten. You have a place to fill in the world, if you have a mind to, but if not, do not think that the place will remain vacant. It will not. Others will be found to fill it just as well as you could. You may be a very important person in the narrow circle in which you revolve, but are a very, very, small personage outside your own orbit. No person is so important that his place cannot be filled; and if you fail to occupy the niche intended for you, some one else will be found to take your place. The world owes to no man a living but furnishes it for every one who is willing to work for it. It waits for no man, but gives every man a chance who has a mind to work. Take your appointed place, but do not imagine for one instant that you are an indispensible.

VETERANS AROUSED

Old Soldiers Quickly Block a Democratic Trick.

THEY INDORSE MR. SHEATZ

War Veterans With Resolutions and Ringing Speeches Line Up With Enthusiasm For the Republican Nominee For State Treasurer.

[Special Correspondence.]

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 17.

Democratic campaign managers have been foiled in an attempt to trick the old soldiers of Pennsylvania into opposing John O. Sheatz, the Republican nominee for state treasurer.

They had a cleverly planned game to spread broadcast stories that Mr. Sheatz was not a friend of the men who fought for the Stars and Stripes when the honor and continuance of the Union was at stake.

They sought to use the veto of the soldiers' pension bill by Governor Stuart to the detriment of Mr. Sheatz, and to that end they had Democratic politicians, who happened to have served in the Union army, help along their scheme.

Early in the canvass there was a circular distributed which emanated from men identified with the Democratic machine of Lycoming county, attacking Mr. Sheatz upon the soldiers' pension issue.

The receipt of these circulars by old soldiers throughout the state stirred up a storm of indignation. Protests began to come from every section. Republicans connected with the Grand Army of the Republic quickly denounced the game of the Bourbon politicians.

The subject was the principal topic of discussion at every gathering of veterans.

War Veterans Take Action.

The temper of the great body of soldiers of the Keystone state was forcibly expressed at a meeting held in Philadelphia, when the following resolution was adopted amid an outburst of applause:

"The War Veterans' Club of Philadelphia resolves that in John O. Sheatz, the candidate of the Republican party for state treasurer, we have a true friend, and one who is ever ready and willing to serve the veteran, his widow and orphan.

"We cordially indorse him for the important office for which he has been nominated, knowing that if elected he will fill the position with honor and credit to himself and a benefit to the people. He is an honorable and capable man, with a stainless reputation, and we call upon our comrades throughout the state to use their influence and all honorable means to secure his election and make his majority, as we believe it will be, overwhelming."

General St. Clair A. Mulholland, U. S. pension agent, made a speech, in which he called upon his comrades to do their utmost to disabuse the minds of those old soldiers who had already been influenced by the Democratic campaign literature and to enlighten them concerning Mr. Sheatz's attitude toward the pension bill.

General Mulholland explained that Democrats in Williamsport are circulating a pamphlet in which Mr. Sheatz is malignantly blamed for the failure of the passage of the pension bill.

Said the general: "There was never a movement more blameworthy; never a movement more blind; never one more, I might even say more blasphemous, than that on the part of certain Democrats to defeat John O. Sheatz.

"Mr. Sheatz is the friend, if they but know it, of every veteran in Pennsylvania. That man who blames him for the governor's veto of the pension bill is politically blind. Those of us who can see know that he had no hand in the matter, and we are indorsing him here believing him to be for us, heart and soul, all the time."

General Latta Speaks Out.

General James W. Latta also spoke, and he used no uncertain terms in referring to those who are opposed to the election of Mr. Sheatz.

"It is a singular thing to me," said the general, "that while practically everybody in this state is heartily in favor of John O. Sheatz for the treasurership, a few old Democrats, soldiers, the very men who should stand by him to the bitter end, are against him. And not only are they arrayed against him, but they are malignant and defamatory in their opposition. He will be elected, of course, but I characterize it as a singular state of affairs, and it is the work of disgruntled Democrats."

Dr. Henry Bullen spoke, saying that the man who fails to vote for Mr. Sheatz stands in his own light.

Sheatz Stands On Record.

Candidate Sheatz is eager that his record in regard to the soldiers' pension bill shall be fully investigated.

"I am glad for every one to know all the facts regarding the passage of the soldiers' pension bill and of the action of the committee on appropriations, of which I was chairman," said Mr. Sheatz. "There are three men, members of the Grand Army, who are doing their utmost to mislead their more confiding associates by using the names of their comrades in circulars of an entirely different nature for which ... fact the name of an honored Grand Army man which was used as president on one of these circulars not only never attended such a meeting, but when he found that his name was being used to give strength to such glaring misstatements, immediately sent word that his name should not be used for such purposes.

Not a Party to Trickery.

"The few men who are making the statement that the original amount named in the bill, which was $1,000,000, would have been sufficient, are making wrong statements, and they know it and do not deceive those who have taken the time to look into the facts. We did everything possible to keep the amount down to the lowest figure, and to those men who might have some doubts on this matter, I sincerely hope they will look up the records—the only true guide.

"It would have been much easier to have left the amount at a million dollars, as the bill originally called for. Had I done so I would have deserved all the censure you could heap on me for trying to hoodwink and deceive the old soldier. But I have never been a party to any trickery.

"For the men who were brave enough and patriotic enough to fight for the preservation of our Union may depend on it that anything that I had to do or will have to do with soldiers' pension bills will be done fairly and squarely, but I want a square deal in return. I want the truth and nothing more."

Crushing the Curate.

One of the first tasks they set the new curate, who was handicapped by youth and inexperience, was to investigate the bona fides of a "widow woman" who had applied to the church for help. He departed nervously on his errand and knocked, as ill luck would have it, at the wrong door.

"How long has your poor husband been dead, my good woman? What number of children have you? Are any of them working? If so, what amount of money are they earning altogether?" were the questions he fired, like shots from a revolver, at the slatternly woman who answered his summons. "I presume I am addressing Mrs. Harriet Smith?" he added, noticing with alarm that she looked angry.

"No, you ain't," answered the woman snappishly. "My name is Selina Jackson, my bairns go to school and my 'usband's doin' what is necessary to a plateful of steak and onions at this very moment. Would you like to know anything else? Where I was born? When I was baptized? At what age I started courtin'? Perhaps," she concluded sarcastically, rolling her tattered sleeve up above the elbow, "you'd like to see my vaccination mark before you go?"

But the bashful curate was already in full flight.—Liverpool Mercury.

Long Men Wanted.

The records in the war department in Washington are as a rule very dry, but occasionally an entry is found that is humorous.

An officer of engineers in charge of the construction of a road that was to be built through a swamp, being energetic himself and used to surmounting obstacles, was surprised when one of his young lieutenants whom he had ordered to take twenty men and enter the swamp said that he could not do it—the mud was too deep. The colonel ordered him to try. He did so and returned with his men covered with mud.

"Colonel, the mud is over my men's heads. I can't do it."

The colonel insisted and told him to make a requisition for anything that was necessary for a safe passage. The lieutenant made his requisition in writing and on the spot. It was as follows:

"I want twenty men eighteen feet long to cross a swamp fifteen feet deep."—Harper's Weekly.

SHEATZ IN DEMAND

Citizens Crowd to Hear Republican Nominee For Treasurer.

HE IS THE MAN OF THE HOUR

Ovation Given the Former Apprentice Boy at Baldwin's By Shipyard Workers In Kensignton and County Meetings Are Largely Attended.

[Special Correspondence.]

Philadelphia, Sept. 17.

With remarkable earnestness and enthusiasm for an off year the Republicans of Pennsylvania are pushing their campaign for the election of John O. Sheatz as state treasurer in every county in the state.

The demand from the voters to hear Mr. Sheatz is unprecedented under the circumstances. Two weeks before the time for which his canvass was scheduled to be opened, he has had to keep upon the go responding to calls to address meetings, to attend county fairs, and to take part in gatherings of Grangers and other bodies of citizens of the grand old commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Sheatz does not claim to be an orator. He is a plain, matter of fact business man; an honest, sincere, unsophisticated man of the people. Wherever he has spoken he has made friends and wherever his pledges to conduct the office of state treasurer in accordance with the promises made at the outset of his campaign are heard, they are believed.

He has made votes wherever he has gone, whether he spoke to his old neighbors of Berks county, or to the sturdy Republicans of the adjoining county of Lehigh, where he addressed several thousands at the Republican county meeting at Emaus, or to the great assemblage in Northampton that cheered him to the echo at the county meeting at Bethlehem, or at the Elks' clam bake in Allegheny county, where fully 20,000 citizens gave him a tremendous ovation, or at the meeting last week in the Kensington district of Philadelphia, where 5000 employes of the ship yards in that section saluted him as a former apprentice boy working in overalls in Baldwin's locomotive works, and resolved to roll up a handsome majority for him on election day—it was the same story.

Sheatz—the Man of the Hour.

The man of the hour—a man to meet every requirement of a faithful, honest, economical administration of the office of state treasurer.

Colonel Wesley R. Andrews, chairman of the Republican state committee, who is working night and day to keep up with his correspondence with Republicans in every county in the state who are enlisted for Mr. Sheatz's campaign, is looking forward to great results as the outcome of the activities of the members of the State League of Republican Clubs, of which Mr. Sheatz is vice president.

After addressing the club men's convention, Candidate Sheatz will go to the Hanover fair in Susquehanna county on Thursday of next week, and on the following day he is booked to address a meeting in Wilkes-Barre, where great preparations are being made by prominent Republicans to give him a cordial reception. Former Postmaster General Charles Emory Smith will accompany Mr. Sheatz to Wilkes-Barre and make a speech in favor of his election.

Wants to Meet the People.

After next week Mr. Sheatz will have a regular itinerary and will speak once or twice almost every day until the end of the campaign.

"I want to meet the voters face to face," remarked Mr. Sheatz, a few days ago. "I want them to see what manner of man I am, and to talk to them frankly upon the issues of the campaign. I want to leave it to them to judge whether my record at Harrisburg as a member of the legislature does not justify confidence in my fulfilling all my pledges regarding the administration of the office of state treasurer."

Lord Young's Wit.

Looking across the table of a public dinner at the overrubicund and fishy eyes of his neighbor opposite, Lord Young, who was a famous lawyer, inquired who the owner of the vinous countenance might be and was told he was the president of a water trust. "Aye," said Lord Young. "Well, he looks like a man that could be trusted with any amount of water!"

Some one told Lord Young that the house of lords had on appeal affirmed a decision of his. "It may be right, after all," was his lordship's reply.

The Right Idea.

"How do you define the phrase 'as black as your hat?'" a father asked his son as the latter had just used the expression.

"Well," replied the youth, "I should define it as darkness that might be felt."—Cassell's Journal.

The Clock and the Watch.

"What pleased me most," said the man who had been abroad, "was the wonderful clock at Strassburg."

"Oh, how I should like to see it!" replied the ignorant youth. "And did you see the watch on the Rhine too?"

At the Foot End.

"Alas, I am at my wit's end," exclaimed the monarch as he was unexpectedly kicked by the court jester.—Bohemian.

Overloaded.

A United States senator had been inveighing at a dinner against long speeches.

"But, senator," said a congressman, "you can't accuse me of ever having made too long a speech, can you?"

The senator smiled.

"Perhaps not," he said, "and again—but did you ever hear about the temperance lecturer? No?

"Well, you must know that there was a temperance lecturer in Maine who visited Ellsworth and lectured. He hit out pretty hard from the shoulder at these so called moderate drinkers, and at the end of his remarks an Ellsworth man took him aside and said in an aggrieved tone:

"'Look here, Jim, I am a moderate drinker, as all the town knows, and to many people it is going to seem as if a good part of your lecture was pointed straight at me. What did you want to do it for, Jim? You never saw me with more on board than I could carry.'

"'What's that?' said the temperance lecturer.

"'You never saw me with a bigger load than I could carry, did you?'

"The lecturer frowned.

"'Well, no,' he said slowly, 'but I have seen you when I thought you'd done better to go twice for it.'"

Wireless Money Lending.

One of the most interesting types on the American track is the professional money lender. Money lending is absolutely forbidden, and so the entire transaction must be conducted sub rosa, but if a person who is on goes broke and he has some article of jewelry of value with him it is easy for him to realize money on it.

The lender is an irreproachably dressed person who sits on the grandstand with the rest of the crowd and is known in his true colors only to the habitues of the track. A man who wants some capital makes an unobtrusive sign to him and twirls a ring he may be wearing at the time. Shortly afterward both will proceed to a restaurant, where, for the benefit of onlookers, they will greet each other as ordinary acquaintances. The exchange is then made over the drink they order; the loan broker has the ring and the bettor his capital. If the latter cashes in on the next race he will return the money and the agreed upon premium and will receive back his ring.—From "The People and the Ponies," by C. F. Peters, in Bohemian.

Spoiled the Encore.

The nobility and gentry of Little Plowboro were recently gathered in the village schoolroom to enjoy some tableaux vivants by local performers, says Pearson's Weekly.

The curtain had just fallen on a really creditable picture of the death of Nelson, shown to slow music, when one man, who was known to be a friend of the gentleman representing the greatest naval hero, rose and tried to make his way toward the stage.

"Keep your seats, please," said the stage manager. "We're much obliged for your kind applause, ladies and gentlemen, and we're going to give you the death of Nelson over again."

"Oh, are yer?" came from the hero's friend. "Then if you'll tell Nelson 'is kitchen chimney's afire p'raps 'e won't die so blessed lingerin'."

He Settled It.

An amusing story is told at Stratford-on-Avon. In the smoking room of a hotel there an Englishman and a Scotchman engaged in a heated argument. John Bull was declaring William Shakespeare to be the only poet of the world, and Donald McPherson was standing up for his Robert Burns. Words ran high and blows seemed imminent when a self confident little commercial traveler determined to throw oil on the troubled waters.

"Gentlemen," he said, stepping between the heated disputants, "let me settle this amicably. Who is this Shakespeare-Burns?"—London Telegraph.

Crowded Out.

"I am thirty-five years old," announced a woman of fifty-six at a tea last week.

"And I am twenty-six," said the woman of forty-five. Then, turning to a girl of seventeen who stood near by, she asked, "How old are you, Ethel?"

"Oh," replied Ethel, "according to present reckoning, I'm not born yet!"

"The Smallpox Devil."

The natives of the west coast of Sumatra object to being vaccinated. They still make offerings to the smallpox devil. The heart and liver of fowls and buffaloes are mixed with yellow rice and other ingredients, placed in the model of a full rigged ship, carried in procession and finally launched into the sea.—Singapore Free Press.

The Secret.

From his farm Judge Blank was in the habit of supplying the preachers of all the churches with flour, corn, hay and vegetables free of cost. He also kept the country supplied with venison from the herd of deer which he kept for many years. He built a big smokehouse in the rear of his grounds. One night, unseen himself, he saw a man emerge from the smokehouse with a side of pork on his shoulder. He recognized the intruder, but said nothing. A week afterward the fellow approached him, saying, "Judge, I understand you had some meat stolen from your smokehouse?" The old judge raised his hand deprecatingly and said: "Sh! No one on earth knows anything about that but you and me."—Argonaut.

Where She Got Them.

"But," said the inquisitive bachelor after the baby had been carefully placed in his arms, "where does she get her blue eyes? Yours are dark, and so are her papa's."

"Oh," the fond young mother explained, "she inherits them from my side of the family. My brother Will's wife has just such eyes exactly."—Cleveland Leader.

Food and Civilization.

Few people realize adequately that the stomach is the greatest civilizing agency upon earth. A well fed man whose meals are suitably served will rise out of barbarism with an irresistible elan.—London World.

The Attraction.

Mme. Dupont—How have you been to the theater this week? Mme. Durand—Yes. Mme. Dupont—Did you see anything good? Mme. Durand—Yes; three perfect loves of new hats.—Rire.

His Order.

"Pop," asked the waiter's little boy, "what does 'apple pie order' mean?"

"Huh," exclaimed the waiter, "that sounds like a Boston man's breakfast."—Philadelphia Press.

Exactly.

"I can tell you," said he, "how much water runs over Niagara falls to a quart."

"How much?" asked she.

"Two pints."

Whisky and Typhoid.

It may be interesting for you to know that habitual whisky drinkers never recover when once attacked with typhoid fever or pneumonia. The whisky makes the system unfit to withstand the ravages of the disease, and death is always the result. Eminent physicians all over the world have noted and studied this fact.—E. V. Conden in Nashville Tennesseean.

How He Judged.

First Man—Writing must have been very expensive in the middle ages. They used feathers for pens. Second Man—Why should they be expensive? First Man—Well, I was only judging from my wife's hats.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Occasional headache, belching, bad taste in the mouth, lack of appetite and slight nervousness are symptoms of indigestion which when allowed to go uncared for, will develop into a case of dyspepsia that will take a long time to get rid of. Don,t neglect your stomach. At the first indication of trouble take something that will help it along in its work of digesting the food you eat. Kodol For Indigesting and Dyspepsia will do this. Kodol will make your food do you good and will enable you to enjoy what you eat. Sold by Green's Pharmacy.

—Impure blood runs you down—makes you an easy victim for organic diseases; Burdock Blood Bitters purifies the blood—cures the cause—builds you up.

There are a great many people who have slight attacks of indigestion and dyspepsia nearly all the time. Their food may satisfy the appetite but it fails to narish the body simply because the stomach is not in fit condition to do the work it is supposed to do. It can't digest the food you eat. The stomach should be given help. You ought take something that will do the work your stomach can't do. Kodol For Indigestion and Dyspepsia, a combination of natural digestants and vegetable acids, digests the food itself and gives strength and health to the stomach. Pleasant to take. Sold by Green's Pharmacy.

Sour Stomach

No appetite, loss of strength, nervousness, headache, constipation, bad breath, general debility, sour risings, and catarrh of the stomach are all due to indigestion. Kodol cures indigestion. This new discovery represents the natural juices of digestion as they exist in a healthy stomach, combined with the greatest known tonic and reconstructive properties. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure does not only cure indigestion and dyspepsia, but this famous remedy cures all stomach troubles by cleansing, purifying, sweetening and strengthening the mucous membranes lining the stomach.

The Salvation Army.

On Sunday evening a special meeting was held in the Salvation Army hall over the Centre County Bank at which a large number of people had gathered. This meeting was a specialty the whole way through. Every one who was there enjoyed it very much.

The meeting was opened with a song by the congregation, followed with a prayer by the Captain. After this Cadet May Bryan sang sweetly "What will the Harvest be." A testimony meeting followed, led by Lieut. Harry Rassler, at the close of which, by special request, the beautiful and heart-stirring song, entitled "The City of Gold" was most successfully rendered. A welcome song was then sung and Captain Switzer gave a short address. After this the meeting was in charge of Captain Henderson who talked to the audience for a few minutes. He is a fine talker and delivered an excellent address.

Next was the Harvest Festival Thanksgiving offering. This part of the meeting was in charge of Lieut. Rassler who, accompanied by the audience sang sweetly, "Bringing in the Sheaves." The results of this offering were then read, which amounted to $94.60. The swearing in of a soldier then took place, conducted by Captain Henderson and Lieut. Rassler. This was one of the most interesting features of the meeting. Two children were then dedicated to God and Army.

An invitation was also extended to sinners to seek the Lord and the service ended. The Army has been very successful in its Harvest Festival effort and are looking foreward for still greater victories.

Robert Henderson, Capt.
Harry Rassler, Lieut.

Learn to Shake Hands

One does not need to grap the hand in a dead like grip, but there is something about a good handshake which is the silent interpreter of a welcome. A person possessing a great deal of personal magnetism may just take your hand in his and the cordial welcome is recognized without even so much as the slightest pressure of the fingers. Others may have a grip, which is more like a clutch. There is no set rule for handshaking unless a person bears in mind that handshaking must be a feeling expressed with the hands and not the eye or voice. If only done through a matter of form there is no earthly use of shaking hands at all. Strong institution serves a great many persons, and to grasp a cold, clammy hand, which lies like a piece of marble in one's hand, is to make a big-hearted person feel like he had come in contact with the wrong party.

WARNING AGAINST "ISMS".

Colonel Henry Watterson made a speech at the opening of the Blue grass Fair in Lexington in which he warned the people of his State against the intrusion of certain "Isms," and counseled them to live without hypocrisy by adhering to the standard of morals of Old Kentucky.

WARNING AGAINST "ISMS."

"I protest against that religion which sands the sugar and waters the milk before it goes to its prayers. I protest against that morality which poses as a saint in public to do as it pleases in private. As the old woman said of the old man's swearing, if there's anything I do abominate it is hypocrisy. In my opinion those things which threaten Kentucky are not the getlemanly vices of the race curse and the sideboard, but perfidy and pharfiseism in public and in private life.

"The men who made the Blueg ass famous, who put the brand of glory upon its women, its horses and its vintage, were not ashamed to take a drink nor to lay a wager, though they paid their losses and understood where to draw the line. They marked the distinction between moderation and in emperance. They did not need to be told what honor is. They believed, as I believe, that there is such a thing as pretending to more virtue than honest mortals can hope to attain.

"I warn our people against the intrusion of certain 'isms' which describe themselves as 'progress,' and muster under the standard of what they call 'God and Morality,' but which, fifty years ago, went by a very different name; 'isms' which, take their spirit from Cotton Mather, not from Jesus Christ; 'isms' which, where they cannot rule would burn at the stake; 'isms which embrace the sum of all fanaticism and intolerance proposing that, instead of the rich, red blood of Virginia, ice water shall flow through the veins of the people; isms' which, in one word, would blot Kentucky out of the galaxy of stars and recreate her in the dread image of Maine and Kansas.

NO ANGELS BY LEGISLATION

"I refuse to yield to these. Holding the ministry in reverence as spiritual advisers, rejecting them, as emissaries of temporal power, I do not intend, if I can help it, to be compelled to accept a rule of modern clericalism which, if it could have its bent and sway, would revive for us the priest-ridden systems of the Middle Ages. I do not care to live in a world that is too good to be genial; too ascetic to be honest; too proscriptive too be happy. I do believe that men can be legislated into angels, even red-nosed angels.

"The blue laws of New England, dead letters for the most part, did more harm to the people, while they lasted, than all other agencies united. I would leave them in the cold storage to which the execration of some and the neglect of all consigned them long ago, not embalm and import them to Kentucky to poison the meat and drink and character of the people. I shall leave my home life, my professional career and my familiar associates to say whether I do not place and have not always placed, the integrity of man, the purity of woman and the sanctity of religion above all earthly things: but I hope never to grow too old to make merry with my friends and forget for a little that I am no longer one and twenty! When the time arrives for me to go to my account, I mean to go shouting: to go with my flag flying and as I never have lied to the people of Kentucky, please God I never shall, I have told them a great many unpalatable things.

FOR OLD KENTUCKY.

"I have met their disapproval full in the face. I have lived to see most of my admonitions against this, that and the other vain hope vindicated by events. I want to live yet a little longer still to tell the truth and shame the devil; but if obscurity and adversity and neglect shall overtake me it will be a comfort even in the valley of the shadow of death that from first to last I fought not for the speckled gospels of the short haired women and the long-haired men of Babylon, but for the simple manhood and lovely womanhood of old Kentucky—never New Kentucky, but always and forever, Old Kentucky—your birthright and mine."

Negro Ravisher Jailed.

The negro whom is charged with the dastardly assault on Mrs. Clarence Hartman, at her home near Linden, last Wednesday morning, is in the custody of Sheriff William Riddle in the county jail at Williamsport. The fellow, a burly brutal appearing black, gives his name as Edward Stewart, thirty-two years of age, a native of Virginia, having been born near Leesburg. He was captured Saturday afternoon near Liberty by Constable Freer and the Rev. Harry McKelvy. Prior to his safe incarceration in the county jail in Williamsport, there were numerous stirring occurrances, but the negro passed through them without injury.

Additional Locals.

—The fellow who is content to follow the crowd will never get to the front.

—When old friends meet for the first time in years the time flies with unusual rapidity.

—A fred Baney formerly of Bellefonte but of late years has been living at Atlantic City died at that place Sunday.

—Miss Jane Hafer is teaching school at Peru. The teacher that began the term took sick and Miss Hafer was appointed in his place.

—If a little bit of the money was spent in repairing Logan street that was spent in fixing up Linn street, it would have been more to the credit of the borough.

—A little baby of Mr. and Mrs. Kale Miller died on Sunday evening. The little one has been ill for several months. The funeral will occur on Tuesday afternoon.

—The many friends of Mrs. William Hunsinger who was operated on at the Bellefonte hospital Tuesday morning, will be pleased to know that she is getting along as well as can be expected.

—George Watson better known as "shorty" was transferred Monday from the Bellefonte yard crew to the Bald Eagle Valley. He was not only transferred, but promoted from a brakeman to a flagman.

—If you want to hear a startling story get Eddie Gates, Francis Speer or Earl Tuten to tell you their experience when they got lost on the mountains on their way home from the Williams reunion at Martha.

—Mr. Brown mother of Councilman Henry Brown fell on Friday and broke her wrist. Mrs. Brown is quite an elderly lady and this fracture is certainly very painful to her. We sincerely hope she may speedily recover.

—On Friday a reunion of the 131 P. V. I. was held at Lewisburg. Over 80 of the old members were in attendance. This is Col. Emanuel Noll's old regiment and of course he was one of the most prominent ones present. He met his old friend Abraham Gunter of Tyrone whom he had not seen since the close of the war.

—Cassie Chadwick, the witch of finance who duped a number of astute bankers, has gone blind in prison. Her general physical condition is so bad that it is thought that she will never emerge alive from the penitentiary. Dr. Garret, the physician in attendance says she is a renrasthenie and that her nervous system is in utter collapse.

—Parents whose children are still out of school should bestir themselves. The little ones have a right to an education. They should be permitted to go to school regularly during the whole term, untill they have acquired the rudiments of a common school education, at least. The coming years are going to be decidedly inhospitable to those who are illiterate.

—Tench Kintzing, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reece Kintzing, and J. Herbert Waite, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Waite, left this morning for State College where they expect to entae for a four years course. Mr. Kintzing will take the electrical course and Mr. Waite the mechanical course. Both are graduates of the Lock Haven high school.—Lock Haven Democrat.

—Mrs. Nora McClain, of north Allegheny street, Thursday celebrated her eighty-eighth birthday anniversary, and is still one of the best preserved women for her age in the country. Though no pretense was made to celebrate the event with a gathering of any kind quite a number of her relatives and neighbors who knew of the occasion called to congratulate her on her good health and anniversary.

—This morning we received by express two beautifully bound copies of "The Toy Makers" and "Miss Petticoats" from the C. M. Clark Publishing Company of Boston, and Messrs Charles F. Atkinson, and James Thatcher, lesses and managers of the two plays which will appear in the Garman Opera House on Friday evening Nov. 15, 1907 and Jan. 8, 1908. For the same we wish to extend our sincere thanks and promise we will do all in our power through the Daily News and Bellefonte Republican to let the people know when they will be with us.

—Coming the great Passion Play

—Friday evening Rev. A. M. Schmidt will tell of his visit to Luceme, Zurich, Heidleberg and his sail down the Rhine. The hour is changed from 8 o'clock to 7:30 p. m.

—All the Bellefonte horses that were at the Hughesville Fair got a hunk of money. "Tom Taligan" George Beezer's fast horse won second money in the 2.18 class. This horse will be entered at the Bellefonte Fair and he will be a winner.

—Have you noticed the new wagon Roger Brouse the grocerymen has got? It is certainly a dandy. Business is picking up in great style for Roger and it was really necessary for him to put on two wagons to get his goods delivered.

—A pile of mud carried from different parts of the street was stacked in front of this office. Every dray that is in the town drives over the stuff and scatters it all over the crossing and pavement. It is certainly unpleasant and should be hauled away.

—The finishing touches are being put on the new Parrish House at the St. John's Episcopal church and it will be ready for the dedication in a few weeks. The occasion will be celebrated in a very fitting manner, several visiting Clergymen will be present, also Bishop Darlington to take part in the exercises.

—Orrie Lowry died at Rockford, Somerset county last week. His death was not made known to his parents who reside up Buffalo Run Valley. So the young man's father Mr. Joseph Lowery and Mr. Edward Rhone left Wednesday morning for Rockford to investigate his death. He was a married man about 29 years old.

—Mr. W. C. Lingle and Mr. John D. Shugert were elected Vestrymen by the Consistory of the St. John's Episcopal Church to fill the unexspired terms of the late Daniel Garman and W. W. Montgomery whose deaths occurred in July. Messrs. Garman and Montgomery had been Vestrymen for almost fifty years.

—Two dandy large teams of horses driven by Mr. Crandles and Mr. Uzzle of Snow Shoe were taken over to Coalmont, Huntingdon county this week. The horses were used in the building of the state road at Snow Shoe and as this is finished they were sold at an excellent price to a coal firm in Huntingdon county. Messrs. Crandel and Uzzle stopped over in Bellefonte on their return trip.

—William Smith who is located in Johnstown was riding home one evening last week on his bicycle. When at a crossing he was struck by a street car and badly injured. He was picked up and taken to the Memorial Hospital where his injuries were carefully attended to. His mother went out and is with him continually. A letter received says that he will be able to leave the hospital in a few days.

—During the absence of Mr. Harry Green from his father's drug store, his place is being filled by Dr. W. F. Crawford a graduate and registered pharmacist of Williamsport. Dr. Crawford is a professional at the business and since coming to Bellefonte has won many friends through his courteous dealings. He is a very careful druggist and knows more about medicines than a great many practicing physicians.

—On Monday evening one of our good ministers of the town found a drunken man lying out on the North end of Spring street. He called the police up and told them they should come and take the fellow home, one of them said "No, we'll lock him up." The preacher said no you won't, you'll take him home, this went on this way until the parson said I'll take him home myself and report you to the proper authorities. The cops went out and took the fellow home. That's one for the Parson.

—Ex-Senator and Mrs. S. R. Peale, of Lock Haven, will celebrate their golden wedding on Sunday, September 29th. Senator Peale is one of the best known men in this part of the State as well as the best preserved and his many friends congratulate him and Mrs. Peale not only on their fifty years of wedded life but on the splendid health they both now enjoy with the promise of many years of life in front of them.

—The Centre county fair premium list has been published and is now being distributed personally to the farmers and business men of Centre county by Col. John A. Daley, of Curtin township. By a glance at the book you can at once see how the premiums on exhibits have been increased this year over former years; in fact, almost doutled, and that it will now pay you to bring your best of every thing to the big fair.

—Frank Barily the hustling yoounng liveryman lost a valuable horse on Friday evening. The horse had been driven very hard by several women and when the beast reached the barn it was ringing wet with sweat. Mr. Barley should report these parties to the Humane Society and have them take action on the case. We notice quite often another team of horses attached to a large yellow huckester wagon that comes down to the station at a break neck speed. Now this fellow had better watch his onion or he'll get pulled in.

—Among the number added to our weekly list this week we notice our good friend Cornie B. Friel. Mr. Friel is a sawyer on the Shope lumber job. He is considered one of the best that travels. And then when ever you have a Barn Floor Dance or a Husken Bee don't fail to have Cornie there for he is one of the best callers we ever heard. We are pleased to know that he has repented and come over among the "push" and added his name to the increasing Republican subscribers. We'll take good care of you Cornie and see that you are not forgotten.

—Harry Taylor the accomodating Express Agent at the Adams office is confined to his home with sickness. We sincerely hope he will speedily recover. Joe Barnes is acting as agent during Mr. Taylor's absence, and Hastings Gates who has been rusticating at Warriors Mark was telephoned for and arrived Tuesday noon to do the elegant on the wagon. Of course Harry Gerberrick is there to over see the work and that every thing moves along o. k., which you all know will, with a bunch of hustlers like these three to handle the stuff.

—The editor of a little western paper was in the habit of cheering up his subscribers daily with a column of short pertinent comments on their town, their habits and themselves. The department on account of its intimate personal favor was the most popular thing in the paper. The editor, as he saw it growing in favor gradually allowed himself a wider and wider latitude in his remarks until the town passed much of its time conjecturing "what he'd das't to say next." On a hot day when a simoon whistled gayly up the streets of the town, depositing everywhere its burden of sand, the editor brought forth his gem of thought: "All the windows along Main street need washing badly." The next morning he was waited on by a platoon of indignant citizens who confronted him with the paragraph in question from the hands of the compositor and informed him fiercely that he had gone too far. After a hasty and horrified glance he admitted that he had. It read: "All the widows along Main street need washing badly."—Kansas City Star.

Nature's Way Is Best.

The function-strengthening and tissue-building plan of treating chronic, lingering and obstinate cases of disease as pursued by Dr. Pierce, is following after Nature's plan of restoring health.

He uses natural remedies, that is extracts from native medicinal roots, prepared by processes wrought out by the expenditure of much time and money, without the use of alcohol, and by skillful combination in just the right proportions.

Used as ingredients of Dr. Pierce's Golden Discovery, Black Cherrybark, Queen's root, Golden Seal root, Blood-root and Stone root, specially exert their influence in cases of lung, bronchial and throat troubles, and this "Discovery" is, therefore, a soverign remedy for bronchitis, laryngitis, chronic coughs, catarrh and kindred ailments.

The above native roots also have the strongest possible endorsement from the leading medical writers, of all the several schools of practice, for the cure not only of the disease named above but also for indigestion, torpor of liver, or biliousness, obstinate constipation, kidney and bladder troubles and catarrh, no matter where located.

Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo N. Y., for free booklet telling all about the medicinal roots composing this wonderful medicine. Their is no alcohol in it.

A PELVIC DISEASE

Of Which Peruna Cured Me In a Very Short Time

WAS SAPPING MY LIFE.

MRS. SOPHIA CALDWELL.

MRS. SOPHIA CALDWELL, 1122 McGavock St., Nashville, Tenn., writes:

"After doctoring for a year and finding no relief from leucorrhea resulting from prolapsus uteri, and which was sapping my life forces away, I finally tried Peruna, and when I found that it was helping me every day, it seemed almost too good to be true.

"But, it not only helped me, It cured me and in a very short time.

"I am now enjoying the best of health.

"I am strong and free from pain, and I certainly feel that all praise and honor are due to Peruna."

Thousands of women will read the testimonial of Mrs. Caldwell as above given.

Thousands of them will be induced to try the remedy that saved her.

Thousands of them will have the same experience she had.

Peruna is the remedy such women need. Peruna comes like a boon to suffering womankind.

Mrs. John Hopp, Webster Ave., Glendale, L. I., N. Y., has also been relieved of pelvic catarrh by Peruna.

FIREMEN TO ATTEND CONVENTION.

Expect 100,000 Visitors.

The twenty-eighth annual convention of the Pennsylvania Fireman's Association opens in Pittsburg October 1st, and the executive committee and local firemen are preparing to entertain 100,000 visitors. The convention will be the largest in the history of the organization. The address of welcome will be made by Mayor Guthrie on Tuesday morning October 1st. Firemen, paid and volunteer, from every city, town and hamlet in the state, will be in the city during the convention week and will march in the big parade on Thursday. All the Blair county fire departments will be represented in the convention and it is possible that several Centre county representatives will be on the spot. The Logan Fire Company of Bellefonte will be there in full force.

Pittsburg engine houses and eqipment will be thrown open for inspection and the exteriors will be decorated.

A practical demonstration will be given by Pittsburg firemen on the closing day of the convention at the foot of Liberty avenue. The water tower, turret deluge from No. 19 company and the automobile engine will be connected and set in motion. The tower and deluge, fed by streams from the big engine, working simultaneously.

Companies from the smaller towns about Pittsburg hope to carry off the cash prize awards by reason of their advantages and accessibility in transporting apparatus and men to the city. Homestead, Bradddock, Carrick, Mt. Oliver and McKees Rocks expect to have big companies in the parade while Greensburg will be there with 125 men. Four old hand engines, representing remnants of Pittsburg's early fire department, will be a featnre in the parade. Chief among them is the Vigilant, owned by the Philadelphia Veteran's association, which in the period before the civil war, was housed in a building on Third avenue between Market and Wood streets.

CORRESPONDENCE

All correspondents must be in this office not later than Tuesday evening. And local matter must be written only on one side of the paper. Correspondents will kindly notice these requests.

Snow Shoe.

Now that Snow Shoe has become a borough we hope that there will be some improvements made such as walks and lights so that people will find their way home on dark nights without breaking their necks.

Piney and James were seen going from our town Sunday afternoon with a four wheeled horse and a bob-tailed buggy. They were going to Moshannon, what's the attraction Piney--James you tell.

Jerry Crandell our hustling fox-hunter was elected constable by a big majority we hope that Crandell will have good luck. So keep your eye on the boys Jerry.

Roland Shope has secured a position at the Mountain House as chief cook and bottle washer. Hustle up Roll it is soon time for a bean boil.

Alfred Thompson was elected squire, we hope he will be successful in his duties by hokey spoons, I am a sardine on wheels if he don't attend to biz right we will put him out and give Flookey Banks the job.

There was a dance held at the Park pavillion on last Friday night, the crowd was poor. Moors orchestra furnished the music. There was lots of boys but no girls. What's the matter Steevy.

The wedding couple have not returned yet from their trip, woe be unto them when they come. The Snow Shoe cornet band has been practicing for the event, look out Poddy. We wish you both a happy life and may you troubles be little ones.

Mr. H. J. Barr or better known as old Cabby our hustling barber, shaves you while you wait. He will make hair grow on your head in 30 minutes stick to your biz Cabby.

W. D. OBrien is on the sick list, has been the past few days. We hope that he will be able to be around again in a few days as he is greatly missed on our streets.

Philip Shaw has secured a position from Thompson and Watson. Driving the supply wagon which is a wheeling success stick to it Phil.

W. G. Cramer, the peg-legged fellow, expects to go into biz soon. We wish him success, get busy Peggy.

Cooler, our hustling drummer is seen on our streets every night at a late hour. What's the attraction Tom?

That our neighbor George Casher has been very ill but is now slowly improving. We hope that he will soon be around again to see his many friends.

Moshannon.

John Hazzard, after an absence of several months is spending a short vacation at his parents home here.

Claude Lomison, has returned to his home here, after a few weeks near State College, where he was employed.

Miss Edith Lucas, was missed from town a few days recently, while on a tour to Howard and Bellefonte.

Rudy Askey, met with quite a serious accident recently, while working on the saw mill near here. A mis-step caused him to fall striking his head on the moving carriage which cut a scar on his forehead.

Mrs. F. L. Zimmerman and daughter of Altoona, are visiting this week at the home of her parents at the "Maples."

The hogs are becoming quite numerous on our streets and the people are complaining a good deal, since Snow Shoe has become a boro.

J. T. Lucas, was a Bellefonte visitor during the week.

Hannah Fetzer, has returned to her home at Yarnell, after a few weeks stay with friends in our town.

Rev. Pancoast of Pittsburg, filled the M. E. pulpit here on Sunday and was quite well appreciate.d

Miss Howard, daughter of John T. Howard, formerly of this place, visited with her grand-parents here recently.

Fowler.

Mr. J. M. Williams, the miller here, is putting a hot-water heating plant in his residence.

Mrs. Rachel Funk is having a public sale of garden tools, hay, etc., and is going to move to Tyrone.

Mrs. H. C. Woodring has been doctoring with Andrews in Philipsburg, for rheumatism. She has been suffering for quite a while and seems to find no relief.

Rev. G. W. Downing former pastor of the Baptist church here, but now of Alexandria, rendered an excellent sermon in the Presbyterian church in Rev. Berger's absence Sunday.

A birthday surprise party was given Zeek Funk at his home here on last Saturday night. Quite a number of young folks were present and his sisters and their families of Tyrone were there.

Gingery and Williams haye a fine collection of up-to-date post cards and are getting views of the town.

Miss Zanova Miles spent Thursday and Friday in Philipsburg attending the Jones family reunion.

Some one said the reason was because "Dump" wants a girl who will require no lamp in the room.

The boys were all very much surprised the way the girls came out and cheered them on to victory on Saturday. They would like to thank each one separately.

Some seemed worried about "Pawnee" but then he hurried up and asked his papa if he could play ball in the afternoon.

Centre Hall

The great Grange Picnic has passed into history. The weather was against it but nevertheless crowds of people plowed through mud in order to see and be seen. The agricultural display was quite extensive and proved the drawing feature of the picnic. Fakers were plentiful and occupied two streets. The most enjoyable occasion was the reunions of the old vets and their camp fire on Tuesday.

Leonard Rhone is to be congratulated for the improvements he has succeeded in making but there remains much to be done yet to make the affair a complete success. The walks should graveled as they are at Hecla, the exhibit pavillion for carriages should be made higher and larger. A driving track should be built and many other improvements made.

Mrs. W. S. Slick and children, Rev. Samuel Kryder and wife, and James Shires of Johnstown; Irvin Stover of Lewistown, and John A. Grenoble of Yeagertown, were among the many who visited friends in Penns Valley and also attended the picnic.

Mrs. J W. Brown and children spent a week at the home of Mrs. Brown's parents Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Krise.

Did Milesburg Feel the Jar?

The Milesburg base ball team came to our town last Saturday and played a game with our team. We know Milesburg is noted for its pretty young ladies who believe that their basket ball team can't be beaten, but the base ball team is not in our class. Gee, how our team did them up. Score 15 to nothing. The fun started in the first inning, after Milesburg had been disposed of in one, two, three order, J. Robison drove the ball so far that Shope had to take the bars out of the fence to get in. Singles doubles, and triples came so rapidly that I had to record them at the speed of an express train. When the smoke of battle had lifted, and the runs counted, it was found that each player of the Milesburg team had a goose egg to take home with him as a souvenir. Of course, our team is made up of professionals. This is how they looked to me; Chance 1st b; Lajoie 2nd b; Collins 3rd b; Maddox p; Needham c; Wagner S S; Clark 1 f; Anderson m f; and little Tommy Leach r f. The Milesburg team looked to me like the Unionville team.

Score by innings

Port Matilda—1 2 2 4 4 0 0 1 5 2 1 2
Milesburg—0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 4 6

NOTES.

Most of our young ladies admired the playing's second baseman, reason, his name was Hugg.

The milesburg boys are perfect gentlemen and we would like to see them play again.

Short stop "Tobe" picked up some "zizzlers" that Wagner could scarcely have handled.

Second baseman, Woodring handled a couple of line drives that had a two base lable attached to them.

During the summer I saw nearly all the National and American league team's play, but first baseman Bennett has a shade on any first baseman in either league; it is reported that he has signed with Pittsburg.

Jodon was the only visiting player to reach third base, he was left there because Hugg struck out.

Robison pitched a fine game striking out 14 of visitors, and only allowing four hits; he has been signed by Altoona.—"Port Wine."

Erring Parson Crushed to Death

Rome, Sept. 22.—Bound to the clapper and crushed to death in the biggest bell of the famous Malalbergo chimes, the parson of the church, from which the notes sounded, paid horribly for wrecking the home of the ringer who compassed his punishment.

The slayer still chuckling over his victim's fearful ending, awaits trial in the Malalbergo prison. His wife has gone mad with horror. Divided between their feeling—common to Italian—that credit rather than blame attaches to a deed of vengeance by a wronged husband and repugnance at the hideous nature of the punishment inflicted on even an erring man, the villagers know hardly whose side to take.

Against the pastor there is but the witness—the ringer of the chimes. Going to the church loft to sound the bells for the usual servire, he surprised his wife and pastor together. The wife, first to see her husband, escaped. The pastor stumbled, however when he rushed for the latter, leading down from the loft and before he could recover himself, the bell ringer had seized and tied him hand and foot.

Then, binding the helpless man firmly to the clapper of the principal bell, he began to sound the chimes.

The minister's blood, streaming upon them from the bell tower, conveyed the first news of the tragedy to the congregation. Hurrying up the ladder to the loft they found the pastor with nearly every bone in his body broken and the ringer still madly crasning the bells.

One Million Advertisements.

The New York World sent up one hundred ballons last Saturday, celebrating its one-millionth "Want" advertisement this year. Each balloon carried an envelope containing an order for $10 in gold. Any one finding one of these balloons should send the order to the New York World and get the $10 gold piece offered. This is the largest advertising record ever made in eight months by any newspaper in the world.

Consigned to the Tomb.

On Wednesday afternoon the late Mrs. W. Harrison Walker was laid to res in the Union cemetery. Services were conducted at her late home on Linn street at 3 o'clock by Dr. J. Allison Platts. The home was filled with loving friends who had gathered to pay a last tribute of love and esteem to this noble young lady whose death has caused sorrow throughout the entire community. The floral tribute was beautiful. Many very large bouquets and floral pieces were sent by loving friends.

A quartette composed of Mrs. Meyers Mrs. Platts, Dr. Platts and Mr. Brown sang very beautiful, "Some day We'll Understand," "Lead kindly Light," and Nearer my God to Thee. The casket bearers were the following gentlemen. John J. Bower Esq., Edward R. Chambers, Esq., Harry Keller, Esq., Henry C. Quigley, Esq., Robert F. Hunter, and Edward C. Richards.

The list of friends present from a distance were as follows: Mrs. S. E. Walker, Mrs. Samuel Brungard, Mr. and Mrs. George D. Walker. Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Walker, G. M. Stover and the Misses Stoner's of Solona; Mr. and Mrs. C. E Hoffman, of Maretto Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Saph, of Bradford; Mr. Dell Oliver, Mr. George Oliver, and Mr. Albert Saph, of Lock Port, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Brigandi, Pittsburg; Mrs. Edward Pitchford. of Bradford, Mrs. E. W. Parshall, of Warren, Pa., Miss Maude Schyler, of Lock Haven.

Brakeman Fatally Injured.

James Boyd Lucas, aged 21, a brakeman employed at the scales in the Tyrone railroad yard, met with an accident about noon today which will probably cost him his life. He was riding upon a draft of cars when a second draft bumped against them and the jolt threw him from the car upon which he was riding, to the track, the wheels passing over his left leg at the thigh, and also over his left hand.

The young man's injuries were at once seen to be very serious. He was brought to the Tyrone station where Drs. W. S. Musser and B. J. Fulkerson rendered immediate attention, and on the afternoon train he was taken to the Altoona hospital. His condition was so low, however, that there was considerable doubt whether he could survive the trip.

The unfortunate youth entered the employ of the railroad company only ten days ago. His parents are both dead he had resided with an uncle until he secured employment at Tyrone. His home was previously at School House crossing, on Snow Shoe branch. Since he came to Tyrone the young man had boarded at the home of Joseph Lewis, corner of Adams avenue and Eighteenth street.—Tyrone Herald.

An Appeal From the Young Men.

This week the Directors of the Young Men's Christian Association are trying to raise their "budget" that is, they are earnestly working to raise enough money to push the work along another year. It is certainly discouraging for them to go to a man or woman of means and lots of money and have them say, "I cannot do anything for you."

The Y. M. C. A. is not a money making scheme, it is a work that is doing untold good in our midst, and many young men spend their evenings at the association who would loaf around the bar-rooms, pool rooms or cigar stores if we did not have this comfortable home to go to.

So this week you will be asked to help a little in raising the finances. Monday and Tuesday they did real well and if the balance of the week proves as good, the desired amount will be had by Saturday night. You can help move this "white elephant" if you only think so, and the little bit you give, God will return it ten fold in some other way. Mr. Meserve, the General Secretary has given a big part of his salary to help the work, will you give a small part of yours?

First of the Season.

A very good game was played Friday night at the commons between Linn street and Bellefonte High School, in which Linn street was badly defeated by the score of 35 to 0.

Knocking Again

The Philipsburg Ledger arises and remarks:

And now Schwab is going to give a $1.500.000 building to State College. By the time this is up all Bellefonte will be riding in autos, since not even a smell, complain other contractors and dealers, do outsiders get when there's anything doing at State. When Stuart gets rested he'll be sweeping the horizon in State's direction looking for "graft," since that seems to be a fad at present.

Proper Care of a Baby's Eyes

First of all, before the new-born baby is washed and dressed, its eyes, including the lids and all surrounding parts, should be most carefully wiped with a soft dry and scrupulously clean linen rag.

This is to remove any secretion that may adhere to them, as this is what sets up inflamation.

Second, carefully avoid exposing baby to draughts. One form of ophthalmia comes from cold. A blast of cold air blowing on the infants head is very likely to cause it.

In the daily bath that every baby must have the eyes should be carefully washed with a bit of old linen and boracic acid solution may be either bought or made by dissolving ten grains of the powder in an ounce of water. Be sure that it is thoroughly dissolved, and this takes time. A bottle full of it may be fixed at one time and used as needed. This lotion does not require further dilution when swabbing the lids generously with it.

The earliest signs of inflamation of the eyes are redness, swelling and heat of the eyelids, then matter begins to form and ozes between them. In the worst form of ophthalmia this matter is corroeive, and may in 24 hours destroy the eyeball. Then you will probably hear that "the baby was born blind."

The prevalence of granulated lids among children at the public schools shows how the eyes are neglected at home, and this dried matter or "granulation," is not uncommon on the lids of babies whose sight seems to be good. It is not a serious condition and merely shows an inclination to weakness that should be checked. When present boracic acid water should be used frequently during the day to remove the secretion that is constantly accumulating.

The habit of putting a baby on its back to stare at a white parsol in its carriage is frightful. The light of the summer sun, beating through white is most injurious and all such sunshades should be lined with brown or green.

Much eye strain, too, is caused by insufficient protection to the head and eyes. Dutch bonnets are very pretty and quaint but give absolutely no shade to the eyes whatever, and are thus likely to do much injury. Floppy hats with broad rims should always be worn by children in the summer, while the old fashioned bonnet is a delightful headgear for the hot weather.

When being put to bed for the night baby's eyes should always have a washing in boracid acid water.

A Statement from the Y. M. C. A.

The Directors of the Y. M. C. A., are making a strenuous effort to close up their canvass for current funds, but still need $478 in subscriptions and $300 in membership to provide for the expenses of the year closing December 31st 1907.

Following is the financial statement that was rendered the first of the present month.

Liabilities
Bills due.....$	878.24
Estimate expenses for Sept. Oct. Nov. and Dec.	1,000
Due special fund of 1906	303
	$2181.24
Resources
Unpaid pledges from 1906	$250
Uncollected subscriptions for 1907	1100
Estimate membership receipts for four months	300
Rent of stables.....	53
Still needed in subscriptions.....	478.24
	$2181.24

The unpaid bills mentioned above should be paid at once, so the Directors would ask all who have made pledges and are willing to pay same at this time to send checks to Darius Waite, treasurer or C. N. Meserve, General Secretary.

If you have not indicated what support you can render the association for the present year, please make your subscription during the coming week.

Bride and Groom in Town

C. M. Bierly, of Dent's Run, and Miss Mayme V. Wolfe, of Smullton, Centre county, were united in marriage Sunday evening at the home of the bride by the Methodist minister of Smullton.

The groom is a young business man of Dent's Run, being manager of the Dent's Run Mining company. He was raised at Rebersburg, where his parents now reside.

The bride is a most estimable young woman and is well fitted to preside over the home which her husband has already provided.

The young couple came to the city last evening and stopped with Deputy Prothonotary Isaac Rumberger and family until this afternoon, taking the 3.40 train for their new home at Dent's Run.—Lock Haven Democrat.

For Thin, Poor Blood

You can trust a medicine tested 60 years! Sixty years of experience, think of that! Experience with Ayer's Sarsaparilla; the original Sarsaparilla; the strongest Sarsaparilla; the Sarsaparilla the doctors endorse for thin blood, weak nerves, general debility.

But even this grand old medicine cannot do its best work if the liver is inactive and the bowels constipated. For the best possible results, you should take laxative doses of Ayer's Pills while taking the Sarsaparilla. The liver will quickly respond, and so will the bowels.

Ladies and Gents Cafe.

Thursday James Summers Bellefonte's society chef opened a restaurant on Allegheny street under the harness store of James McClure. Nearly every one in town knows that Mr. Summers is one of the best cooks that has ever been in Bellefonte, and without a doubt he can pleased everyone he ever cooked for.

The restaurant is as neat and clean as a pin. The floor is covered with linoleum, On the side walls are hanging large pictures suitable for a dining room. His kitchen and cooking utensils are just as clean as can be and shine like silver. He has attached to the restaurant in a separate room a splendid shoe shine parlor something that is greatly needed in Bellefonte.

Mr. Summers want it distinctly understood that this is a ladies' and gentlemen eating parlor and it will be run in that manner. Gentlemen can feel perfectly safe in taking their ladies there for a lunch or a dinner. We feel sure Mr. Summers will make a success of the business, as he is known throughout the town as to his ability in the cooking line. To see how nicely he is located take a peep in tonight and taste some of his dainties.

Bellefonte Beaten in Five Inning Game.

On Thursday the Bellefonte base ball team crossed bats with Millheim boys in a five inning game and lost to a score of 2 to 1. Both teams put up a nandy game of ball, but the line up our fellows had they should of snowed the Penns Valley boys under in great style.

What to Do When You Drop an Egg.

At a breakfast party in England which Joseph H. Choate attended while he was American ambassador a young lady at his right accidentally spilled the contents of her plate.

"Oh, Mr. Choate," she exclaimed, "I don't know what to do, for I've dropped an egg on the floor!"

"If I were you I'd cackle."

CALUMNY.

A whisper woke the air,
A soft, light tone, and low,
Yet barbed with shame and woe.
Ah! Might it only perish there,
Nor farther go!

But, no! A quick and eager ear
Caught up the little meaning sound.
Another voice has breathed it clear,
And so it wandered round
From ear to lip, from lip to ear,
Until it reached a gentle heart
That throbbed from all the world apart,
And that—it broke.
—Frances Sargent Osgood.

A Remarkable Baby.

A teacher disturbed by giggling called upon one of the culprits to tell him the cause.

"Please, sir," responded the lad, "Turner says a baby who was fed elephant's milk gained ten pounds a day."

"Turner," said the teacher sternly, "you should not tell lies."

"But it's true, sir," rejoined Turner.

"Whose baby was it?"

"The elephant's, sir."

Kicked the Wrong Man.

A young married man in Boston met a friend of his bachelor days and insisted on his coming home with him to lunch. His wife was unprepared for visitors and, calling him aside, told him she had only one dozen oysters and that when his friend had eaten his quota of four he must not be asked to take any more. In spite of his promise to remember, when the guest had eaten his four the host pressed him to take more. The wife looked distressed, and the friend declined every time the husband asked.

Later the wife said to her husband:

"How could you urge him to have more oysters when I had explained to you that there weren't any more?"

"I'm very sorry," said the penitent husband, "but I forgot all about it."

"Forgot about it! What do you suppose I was kicking you under the table for?"

"But you didn't kick me."

As She Heard It.

A fashionable woman had a bit of statuary bearing the inscription "Kismet." A housemaid dusting the room asked the mistress:

"Shure, ma'am, what's the m'anin' of the writin' on the bottom of this?"

"Oh, you mean 'Kismet.' It means 'fate.'"

Bridget was limping painfully when out with her sweetheart not long afterward and apologetically explained, "Faith, I have the most tirrible corns on me kismet."—Ladies' Home Journal.

A Sermon and Its Reminder.

A Brooklyn minister gave a scathing discourse on the evil effects produced by bad example and exhorted all members of his congregation not to countenance by their presence such a place of iniquity as Coney Island. At this one of the church wardens excitedly snapped his fingers.

At the close of the service a member accosted the church warden and said:

"How was that for a sermon?"

"Great! I hope it will bear fruit," was the reply.

"What did you snap your fingers for?"

"Why, it reminded me that's the place where I left my umbrella."

Contortional.

During a husking bee in Maryland two young people were missed.

"I wonder where Nellie and Jim are!" somebody exclaimed.

A small boy edged his way forward and, pointing toward the vague darkness beyond the barn door, said:

"They're out there kissin' theirselves."—Lippincott's.

A Matter of Doctors.

"There were two sisters living in Michigan," said Senator Burrows, "who warred constantly about the two great schools of medicine. One pinned her faith to allopathy and the other to homeopathy.

"One day there was great excitement in the family of the lady who believed in allopathy, and it was soon announced that she was the mother of bouncing twin boys.

"The other sister came down in a hurry. 'Well,' she said, 'now see what's happened. I wanted you to have a homeopathic doctor. After this I guess you will listen to me.'"

Agreeable Men.

Speaking of the philosophical temper, there is no class of men whose society is more to be desired for this quality than that of plumbers. They are the most agreeable men I know, and the boys in the business begin to be agreeable very early. In the dryest summer days my garden fountain became disabled. The pipe was stopped up. A couple of plumbers, with the implements of their craft, came out to view the situation. There was a good deal of difference of opinion about where the stoppage was. I found the plumbers perfectly willing to sit down and talk about it—talk by the hour. The work dragged a little, as it is apt to do by the hour. Sometimes they would find upon arrival that they had forgotten some indispensable tool, and one would go back to the shop, a mile and a half, after it, and his companion would await his return with the most exemplary patience and sit down and talk—always by the hour. I do not know but it is a habit to have something wanted at the shop. They seemed to me very good workmen and always willing to stop and talk about the job or anything else when I went near them. Two of them will sometimes wait nearly half a day while a comrade goes for a tool. I think they have very nearly solved the problem of life. It is to work for other people, never for yourself, and get your pay by the hour. You then have no anxiety and little work. Working by the hour tends to make one moral. I never heard a plumber swear or exhibit the least impatience at any small vexation, working by the hour. Nothing can move a man who is paid by the hour. How sweet the flight of time seems to his calm mind!—Charles Dudley Warner.

Indignation Unexpressed.

A letter dictated by an old gentleman runs thus: "Sir, my stenographer, being a lady, cannot take down what I think of you. I, being a gentleman, cannot express it, but you, being neither, can readily divine it."

Lamb With Mint Sauce.

"I was walking down an English lane with an English girl on an August afternoon," said Richard Le Gallienne. "The sun shone through a soft haze, and in the green fields many white lambs played.

"'Is it any wonder,' I said, 'that poets from time immemorial have made the lamb the emblem of innocence?'

"The young girl smiled radiantly.

"'Lambs,' she said, 'are indeed delightful animals, especially with mint sauce.'"

At Supper With the Legislators.

A drummer stopped at a hotel in Montpelier, Vt., when the legislature was in session. It was the headquarters of many legislators.

At the supper table they began to call upon each other to pass the food in this wise: "Will the man from Bradford please pass the rolls?" "Will the gentleman from Essex pass the pie?" "Would the man from Portland please pass the butter?"

The drummer had been unable to get anything, and during a brief interval of quiet he turned to the colored waiter and remarked, "Will the gentleman from Ethiopia please pass the bread?"

She Knew Him.

An architect remarked to a lady that he had been to see the great nave in the new church. The lady replied, "Don't mention names; I know the man you refer to!"

Grandpa Objects.

An elderly Washingtonian was recently discussing with a lady the bringing up of the children of the present day, when he declared that for unadulterated impudence and assurance the American child is without an equal.

"While enjoying a stroll in a suburb the other afternoon," said he, "I was approached by a boy of, I should say, twelve years.

"'Hello, grandpa! Have you seen my dog?' he asked.

"'How dare you address me in that way?' I exclaimed.

"'Don't let that produce insomnia, grandpa, I'm not trying to make a hit with you. Either you have seen my dog or you have not. If you haven't, we'll part in a friendly way, with no clothes torn; if you have, then please produce the pup. It's a Boston bull, thoroughbred, a prize winner, and answers to the name of Bootles. Anything doing in the canine line?'

"'I have not seen your dog.'

"'Then au revoir, grandpa,' shouted the little fiend, as he darted away."—Lippincott's.

The Difference.

"You are ruled," said a Briton, "by a lot of vulgar rascals whom you would never dream of meeting socially, don't you know."

"Yes," replied the American, "but in England you are ruled by a lot of people who would never dream of meeting you socially."

His Unlucky Days.

Seated in a row on the porch of an old country inn, with their chairs tipped back, some old cronies were going on about unlucky days. After all had given what they considered their unlucky days a quiet old chap at one end spoke up:

"Aa'll tell ye ma unlucky days. Aa's fund oot in ma time that it's unlucky te be struck wi' leetning on a Monday, or te be catched wiv a circular saw on a Tuesday, or te tumble owerboard on a Wednesday, or te be run ower by a motor car on a Thursday, or lose a ten pun note on a Friday, or be bitten by a mad dog on a Saturday, and hev nowt for dinner on the Sunday!"—Ladies' Home Journal.

Sheer Waste of Money.

At the Metropolitan club of Washington Justice Harlan had introduced to him a well known New York business man. With the apparent purpose of impressing those about him, the New Yorker remarked that his income exceeded $100,000. "And I simply have to make that amount," he added. "Why, it costs me $80,000 a year to live!"

"Dear me," said Justice Harlan blandly. "Really that's too much! I wouldn't pay it—it isn't worth it!"

A Chance to Branch.

A colored preacher would never become ordained, being content to remain just an exhorter. One of his congregation asked him about it.

"Well, it's dis way," said he. "When you's a preacher you's gotter have a tex' an' stick right close to it, but if you's only a exhorter you kin branch."

Waves of Water.

Waves are deceptive things. To look at them one would gather the impression that the whole water traveled. This, however, is not so. The water stays in the same place, but the motion goes on. In great storms waves are sometimes forty feet high, and their crests travel fifty miles an hour. The base of a wave (the distance from valley to valley) is usually considered as being fifteen times the height of the wave. Therefore a wave twenty-five feet high would have a base extending 375 feet. The force of waves breaking on the shore is seventeen tons to the square inch.

He Picked Them.

An English commercial traveler visiting a large Glasgow warehouse made a bet with the manager that he could pick out all the married men among the employees. Accordingly he stationed himself at the door as they came back from dinner and mentioned all those whom he believed to be married, and in almost every case he was right.

"How do you do it?" asked the manager in amazement.

"Oh, it's quite simple," said the traveler, "quite simple. The married men all wipe their feet on the mat; the unmarried ones don't."—Glasgow Times.

A Smuggling Episode.

By Florence Newhouse Fox.

Copyrighted, 1907, by C. H. Sutcliffe.

As Dorothy stepped from the train she cast a furtive look behind her and made a dash for a carriage.

She was almost certain the tall man with a Vandyke beard had followed her all the way from Easton and still had his eye upon her. She crouched back in a corner of the vehicle with heart throbbing madly and nerves at a high tension.

"Drive fast to the Glen hotel," she ordered the cabman.

The driver whipped up his horses and in ten minutes drew up before the picturesque hotel in the woods of Glen Echo.

As Dorothy sprang to the ground a girl of twenty came around the corner of the veranda.

"Dot Graham!" she cried to the newcomer. "Can I believe my eyes? I am so glad to see you. We are as dull as rusty hoes up here since the season closed."

"PARDON ME, IS THIS MISS PRICE?" HE ASKED COURTEOUSLY.

"Come in! Oh, come in quickly!" Dot exclaimed, pulling her friend into the house hurriedly. "Fan, I have been followed."

"Followed?"

"All the way from Easton."

"Well," laughed Fan, "you must blame your own charming face."

"No, no; it is not a vulgar flirtation. He is a detective."

"Nonsense. Why should a detective follow you? Why, Dot, dear, you are trembling like a leaf. Come up to my room and tell me all about it."

"It all comes from buying this coat in Canada."

"Your new sealskin? Um, isn't it a beauty?"

"I hate it." Dot flung the offending article upon the sofa. "Goodness only knows what complications it has occasioned. I wore it on the train, knowing nothing of the duty imposed on such articles until brother George met me at the station in Easton. Even then when he told me the danger I incurred of being arrested for smuggling I thought it one of his pranks. You know George is never so happy as when he is teasing me. But when he insisted upon my coming up here to you until all danger was past I became really frightened and with cause, as you will admit," continued Dot breathlessly, "for I noticed a man not five minutes later standing near where I was waiting for the train who seemed to be watching me. Sure enough, he boarded the same train and alighted at Glen Echo station almost upon my heels. Fan, will you harbor a fugitive from justice?"

Dorothy's woeful face was too much for vivacious Fan Price. She bubbled over with laughter.

"You are alarming yourself unnecessarily," she assured her friend. "If the man had been a detective he would have arrested you then and there."

"Detectives are very shrewd people," pronounced Dorothy distrustfully.

"I am glad you came to me. We remain here until the first of the month. Father is keeping the hotel open to accommodate a party of congressmen who are up for a two weeks' hunt, and mother refuses to leave him," Fan explained.

"What are your congressmen hunting for?" Dot asked.

"Bears," said Fan.

"I thought," and there was a mischievous twinkle in Dorothy's eyes, "that they might be hunting for dears?"

"In which event," twinkled Fan, "you would be obliged to flee from danger once more."

Both girls laughed with the gladness of youth, and for the time Dot forgot her anxiety. They ran up to the cedar room, where Mrs. Price with motherly forethought was laying away summer clothing in large paper bags scented with lavender. They strolled out under the leafless trees in the cold November twilight, exchanging confidences, and came in shivering, late to dinner.

The congressmen were all there, gathered around one large table which had been set apart for them. As Dorothy passed on to the family board she became conscious of an intent gaze fixed upon her; an irresistible something drew her eyes toward the men—toward one, at least, and their eyes met.

The color left her face, her eyes grew sick with fear—the fear of arrest. To be dragged like a common thief to prison to answer the charge of smuggling! The thought was unbearable. She blamed the law that made it a crime to wear one's own garments into one's own country.

Slipping into her seat she leaned toward Fan with a shuddering whisper: "He is here! The one with short, pointed beard. Don't look—and don't tell your father or mother."

Fan glared in the direction of the congressmen, singled out the Vandyke, which at that moment was oblivious of her critical scrutiny in an interested discussion of venison, and whispered back:

"He does not look ferocious enough to bite."

But Dorothy could not see the joke; it was an hour of agony for her. When at last the meal was over and they could get away, the two girls ran up to the safe seclusion of Fan's room, where they talked it over breathlessly and in whispers.

They decided that Dorothy should steal away under cover of darkness, take the first train for Easton and so make good her escape.

As to the sealskin sack, the cause of so much agitation, it was secretly stowed away in one of Mrs. Price's lavender bags; Dot enveloped herself in a borrowed cravenette, hiding her face behind an automobile veil.

With timid step the two conspirators slipped down to the lower hall. They could hear the men's voices as they exchanged stories around the office fire.

Just as the girls reached the lower step, with freedom almost within reach, the office door opened and Dot's pursuer stepped forth.

"Pardon me, is this Miss Price?" he asked courteously. "Your father said I would find you in the sitting room."

"Oh—er—yes," stammered Fan, trying to push palpitating Dorothy past him.

He seemed such a pleasant, polite detective that for one reckless moment Fan entertained the idea of appealing to him in behalf of the innocent offender, but before she could speak he pulled a letter from his pocket.

"It is for Miss Price and is from my sister, Nellie Dayton," explained he.

"Nellie Dayton your sister?" both girls exclaimed in surprise.

"Yes," he said cordially. "When she learned that I was coming up here for a few days' shooting with some friends she insisted that I become her courier. She also intrusted to my care a kodak picture—some of her own work, I believe. It is a group of picnickers, among them yourself and your friend here. I recognized Miss Graham when I saw her at the station at Easton, although it is three years since I have seen her. I was strongly tempted to make myself known at once, but I saw that she did not remember me."

Dot threw back her veil, disclosing a bright smile and a face beaming with relief.

"I wish you had, Mr. Dayton," she said, impulsively extending both hands. "It would have saved me such a scare."

"What?" inquired Dayton, mystified. "Not afraid of me?"

"N-no—of your beard," laughed Dorothy, in which Fan joined. "You were a beardless senior when I met you three years ago, you know."

"So I was. Why, I did not think of that. What a chump I am."

Several days later, when "Brother George" came to Glen Echo with a significant ring for Fan Price, she told him in confidence that his prank was likely to cost his sister her freedom.

"Imprisonment?" he asked in a horrified whisper. "That is severe punishment for smuggling one article."

"That depends upon the article smuggled," Fan hinted, with a wise side glance. "I am afraid our Dorothy has been guilty of smuggling other things than sealskin coats, and she began three years ago."

"Three years a smuggler! Then she deserves the limit for such an offense."

"Deserves it? She would not be happy without the full penalty of the law—imprisonment for life! There, I told you so," Fan added mischievously as Dot and Mr. Dayton strolled into view. "Here she comes now with her jailer."

THE WOMAN WHO COUGHED.

Catarrh had nearly ruined me. It had eaten away the partition in my nose; produced Asthma, Bronchitis, Rheumatism; ruined my stomach; in fact, gone all through my system. Then Grip finished me. I was a wreck; took cold at nothing; and coughed day and night. The doctors dosed me with opium and quinine. No good. Cough 'cures'? Bah! Then Brazilian Balm renovated me. Killed every germ. Took 10 $1.00 bottles. Now I'm like a girl of 18.

ED MORRIS IS MISSING

All Signs Point to Commission of Brutal Crime.

MAY BE MURDERED.

Tell Tale Bloodstains and Torn Collar at the Shop of West End Butcher Only Clue to Tragedy.

POLICE ARE NOW BUSY ON THE CASE.

Whether Edward S. Morris a well known Newberry meat dealer, has been murdered or intentionally disappeared, leaving behind him prepared clues to indicate murder, is the question that agitates Newberry, at the close of an exciting day, a diligent search for the missing meat man and failure to recover the body. A third theory, self destruction, has nothing to back it. Indications of a brutal murder are strong, the inability of searchers to locate the body of Morris if dead, being the one thing that seemingly is in opposition to the murder theory. The disappearance or murder of the Newberry man occurred after 10 o'clock Thursday night and prior to 2 o'clock Friday morning although a search was not instituted until several hours later. The "Black Hand" is mentioned in connection with the supposed crime; there is no positive indication however, that an Italian or several of them committed the deed, if Morris was murdered. In general the case is one of the most peculiar and thoroughly baffling in the history of the local police. The details cover a strange and intensely interesting combination of circumstances.

Briefly the case is this: Edward S. Morris, 32 years old, whose meat shop is at the rear of his house, on Arch street, near the Pennsylvania Railroad, Newberry, Thursday evening went to the John Peters meat plant east of the city to pay a bill, returned to Market square, in this city by 8.30 o'clock, went back to Newberry on the 10 o'clock car and was not seen later. his disappearance or supposed meeting with foul play occurring between that hour and some time in the neighborhood of 2 a. m.

His mother and wife about 2 a. m. went to the shop to see if the wagon was there or if there was anything to indicate where Morris was. By 3 a. m. they where genuinely alarmed, aroused Elmer Pepperman, the assistant of Morris, to have him call the Peters plant for information and, failing to get telephone connections at that hour, were at a loss what to do.

Their fears were increased when Pepperman, at about 5 15 o'clock, found in the rear part of the meat shop a bloody hatchet, the cap of Morris, blood spattered, and outside the door the collar and tie of the missing man, the collar blood and split as if by a knife. At this point Fred Morris, a cousin of Edward Morris, was summoned. Following the failure of a private search to locate Morris. the police were called and the organized search began.

A piece of meat partly carved, was on the block, near which was the cap of Morris and the hatchet. It would appear that while the man was at work at the block someone approached him from behind, cut him in the neck with a knife and then struck a blow with the hatchet. The traces of blood were rather slight, but a fatal blow at the base of the skull probably would not have to cause a profuse spurting of blood.

THE TRI-STATE LEAGUE

Magnates held Meeting in Philadelphia Thursday.

LIMIT SALARIES $2,600

Exclusive of Bench Management—President Carpenter Presided at the Meeting.

PENNANT AWARDED TO WILLIAMSPORT

Philadelphia, September 20.—The magnates of the Tri State league at their annual meeting held here Thursday night decided that the salary limit for clubs in the league shall be $2,600 a month exclusive of the bench management. Where the club has a playing manager, the limit was fixed at $2,800 this means that the player manager must get his salary out of the $2,800. To insure the enforcement of the salary limit steps were taken to tie up the clubs so that there will be no chance of their breaking faith. Each club will be required to file a bond of at least $2,000 as a guartance of faith in this matter. The amount of the bond was not fixed, but President Carpenter said that it would not be less than $2,000. Not only will any club found guilty of exceeding the limit, forfeit the bond, but the president is empowered to remove the club's franchise and exercise any other punishment he may deem advisable in the case.

The pennant was formally awarded to Williamsport.

President Carpenter, it was announced would shortly confer with President Farrell, of the New York State league, to draft rules to govern the post season series of games between Williamsport and the winner of the New York State league.

Just Like a Girl.

He is a very young boy. His is the age when a lofty contempt for the opposite sex manifests itself, the contempt which usually finds merciless retribution in later years.

His task of watching the baby was not as distressing as it might have been. He had utilized the bascinet as a cradle and had found a place where the floor sloped a little.

Behind the vehicle he extended himself and with head on hand proceeded to read a story paper. An occasional pull at a string fastened to the rear axle imparted the motion necessary to keep the slumberer from waking, but the baby soon had its nap out and began to cry. The boy paid no attention to the noise, and after awhile his sister came to investigate.

"I suppose you are going to lie there and wait for the baby to learn to talk, so it can tell you what it's crying about."

"No," he answered. "Being able to talk wouldn't make much difference."

"Why not?"

"Because it's a girl. Girls never know what they're crying about. It just comes natural to them to do it."—Pearson's Weekly.

Indian Believes In Omens.

Mysticism plays a great part in the hunting of the Indian. He is a great believer in signs and omens, and if he starts to hunt and sees a sign or omen that bodes evil he turns back to wait a more propitious time. The flight of certain birds, the floating of a feather, the crawling of snakes, are of import, and unless he believes in the potency of his medicine to overcome the evil influence he will not go after game when the signs are not right. The Indian, being very susceptible to cold, does little hunting in the dead of winter. Being neither hardy nor warmly clothed, he prefers the warm campfire in the tepee to the distress of the hunting trail when the cold is biting. It is generally believed that the red man is one of the most hardy of the human race because he has spent his life in the open, but that sort of life is not conducive to hardiness unless it be accompanied with plenty of food and warm clothing. — San Francisco Chronicle.

Pretty Pert.

A baldheaded man writes: "The most impertinent child I ever met was a boy of ten years of age. On leaving his widowed mother's house I attempted to pat him on the head in a fatherly manner. At this he pushed my hand away and said, 'Grow some hair of your own, old man, if you want to pat it!'"

That is the best government which desires to make people happy and knows how to make them happy.—Macaulay.

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys, surely point to weak kidney Nerves. The Kidneys, like the Heart, and the Stomach, find their weakness, not in the organ itself, but in the nerves that control and guide and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the Kidneys alone, is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine scalds, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Brights or other distressing or dangerous kidney disease, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month—Tablets or Liquid—and see what it can and will do for you. Druggist recommend and sell

BRIEF MENTION

Short Items of Local Interest Gathered By The Way Side

—Reuben Miller had the misfortune of loosing a valuable horse on Thursday.

—F. Walls Larimer hat accepted a position with the American Lime and Stone company and went to work at Tyrone on Monday.

—Knisely and Rhoads have secured the contract for building the abutments for the iron bridge over Penns creek at Allison's mill.

—Mr. and Mrs. John Neese are rejoicing over the arrival of a little baby girl at their home on Willowbank street. The little girl arrived on Tuesday.

—A nice little daughter arrived on Sunday to brighted the home of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Fox of Lock Haven. Mrs. Fox was formerly Miss Josephine Haupt of this place.

—The Brockerhoff mill at Roopsburg is being remodeled throughout and when completed will have its capacity for turning out flour increased at least twenty-five barrels a day.

—David J. Kelley, one of the Bellefonte superintendents for the American Lime and Stone company, has been quite sick the past few days and quite naturally has not been able to get out of the house.

—Monday night 18 young men attend the mechanical drawing class at the Y. M. C. A. H. C. Harper, one of the finest instructors of the kind in this part of state will have charge of the class. This class will meet every Monday and Tuesday evening.

—Mr. W. T. Dunning, who recently left Bellefonte after serving as organist in the Methodist church for nine months, has been offered the position of organist in St. Stephens Episcopal church, Harrisbburg, one of the best positions of the kind in that city.

—The Bellefonte Electric company are figuring on establishing a day current in this place, providing they can get enough users to justify them in doing so. They already have the promise of a number of parties to install motors so that the prospect looks quite encouraging.

—Miss Edna Meyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Meyer of this place has entered Wilson College, at Chambersburg, one of the best young lady seminaries in this country. She is a bright and intelligent young lady and graduated from the Bellefonte High school, and there is no question but she will like the school and get along nicely.

—The Centre county historical society held quite an interesting meeting in the court house on Monday afternoon. Col. J. L. Spangler presided and among those who read papers and took part in the discussions were Mrs. H. C. Valentine, Mrs. Elizabeth Callaway, Mrs. J. L. Spangler, J. Thomas Mitchell, Clement Dale, G. W. Rumberger and D. Paul Fortney.

—The many acquaintances in this place of Frederick K. Foster, who several years ago bought out the George L. Potter insurance agency in this place and conducted it a year or more, were surprised the past week to learn that he was married in Denver, Col., about two weeks ago. Mr. Foster has been in Denver for several months and expects to locate there permanently.

—The Nittany Furnace Co., of Bellefonte, has discarded the Gatesburg ore banks, which has been in operation for a great many years. While there is still ore, there is not sufficient quantities to pay for taking it but the company will get ore from near Glenn Iron, located in Union county, along the Tyrone & Lewisburg railroad. This ore is of a superior quality and makes fine iron.

—L. C. Gettig, the butcher, has leased the Thomas homestead, near the P. R. R. round house, now occupied by Cliffton Thomas. He will move from the Vanfries house, on Spring street on October 1st. People coming along in the train will wonder what millionaire lives there. It is a nice place to live but we would be sorry to hear of Lew straining his back while cutting the grass on that large lawn.

—Lee Adams, son of the late Frank Adams, who has been employed in the General Electrical works at Schenectady, N. Y., has accepted a position at the Pennsylvani State College as an assistant in the electrical department. He is a graduate of the college and his close application to his work while in Schenectady has been the means of his securing such an important position which he has been called to fill. He and his wife have been at the College for the last ten days where Mr. Adams has been getting acquainted with his duties.

Messrs. C. F. Shaw, and J. W. Hall, two young men employed by the United States Government in the department of Bureau of Soils are in Bellefonte taking a geographical survey of the soils around Bellefonte. The young men are guests at the Bush House.

Rev. Newton S. Baily, just the same old "Newtie" that run the Centre Magnet and that use to be one of the boys around Bellefonte only now he is preaching the Gospel, was a Bellefonte visitor on Monday. We were glad to see Rev. Baily and to know that he is getting along so well with his work. He left Tuesday for McKeesport where the members of his flourishing church have prepared a lovely reception for him.

Will S. Loflin one of the happiest guy that ever traveled the pike was in Bellefonte Tuesday. He is one of those merry go-lucky fellows who is enjoying life to its fullest extent, that is when he is away from his work. Mr. Loflin is superintendent for J. K. Palmer & Co., who have just completed a two mile stretch of state road at Snow Shoe. They have large contracts other places and Loflin is making arrangements to take up the work before the winter sets in. You don't meet a fellow like him everyday and it sort of drives the blues away just to talk to him.

Edward Brown Jr., left on Saturday afternoon for New Haven, Conn., where he has accepted the position as a timekeeper for a large manufacturing concern. He is a bright young man and we sincerely hope he gets along tip top. This is his first experience in working away from home, and he will find a great many trifling matters that will make him homesick. But he has the get-up and nerve and the ambition to become something and we know he will make a success.

Charley Keichline returned Sunday evening from an extended visit to Philadelphia and Atlantic City, he reports having had a splendid time. Charley has worked hard the past season and this little trip will do him good, just sort of brighten him up a little. He is a great help to his father in business and in fact we really don't see how he could get along without him. The Keichline's handle a nice trade in their business and both Charley and his father have been thoroughly educated how to deal with their Bellefonte customers.

Harry Green after a year of hard work behind the prescription counter in his father drug store left on Sunday morning for an extended trip up through New York and the New England states. He will likely go from New York to Boston by boat over the Fall River line. This is certainly a well earned vacation as Harry has worked hard the past year and we hope he will enjoy the trip in a royal, good way. He is one of the best and most careful Pharmacist we have in the town, and he and his father know exactly how to take care of the large trade they have worked up. Always pleasant, courteous, and generous to their customers.

She was at the skating rink on Saturday evening and won a great many admirers for her excellent skating.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Thomas and family left on Saturday afternoon for Georgia where they expect to remain at least the greater portion of the winter. They had a sale last week and sold their horses, cows and carriages and a good bit of their household furniture. We feel very sorry to lose the Thomas family from our midst, as they have sort of won themselves into the hearts of the people and were getting nicely acquainted with the Bellefonte citizens. Mr. Lew Gettig and family will move into the Thomas homestead sometime this fall.

Charles W. Neeley and wife left Saturday evening for Harrisburg where they will engage in Mission Work. Mr. Neely had been an inspector for the Hammon Coupler Co., of Pittsburg. A great deal of this work is being done at the J. Howard Lingle Co's foundry, and Neely was sent here to inspect the work. Since coming to Bellefonte he took unto himself a wife to brighten his pathway through life and the two together feel as though they can do a great work in the Mission field. We sincerely hope the young folks will meet with success.

Mrs. Carrie Kirby who has been a pleasant visitor at the home of Mrs. and Mrs Claude Smith in the Criders Exchange returned to her home in Tyrone on Tuesday evening.

Dr. A. W. Hafer left on Tuesday evening for Tyrone where he attended a meeting of the Royal Arcanum. The Grand Officers of the organization were present and presided over the meeting. A royal banquet was held after the business was transacted.

Mr. C. D. Young who has been attending the United Brethren Conference at Clearfield returned home on Tuesday evening. He was sent as a delegate from the Bellefonte church. On his way home he stopped over at Osceola Mills and spent a day with his aunt and uncle.

John Saylor left on Tuesday evening for DuBois where he has accepted a position as time-keeper on one of the Shoemaker contracts. John is a bright young fellow and can fill this position very acceptably. He is a hustler and we know he will get along O. K. All he wants is a chance and he will show them what he can do.

Dr. A. W. Harris, President of the North Western University of the Methodist Episcopal church of Evanston, Ill., and his son Abraham spent a few days at the home of Mrs. Lew Harris the past week. They returned to their western home today accompanied by Miss Elenor Harris who will spend the winter with them. James R. Harris was another visitor in Bellefonte, he left today for his home in Philadelphia. He is one of the leading architects of today.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Neff passed through Bellefonte Tuesday evening on their way home to Snow Shoe. They are just returing from their wedding tour through the South. When they reached Snow Shoe a large delegation of young people were at the train to meet them and for fully two hours they sernaded the happy young couple. A band of music met them and escorted them to their home. It was one of the most pleasant receptions ever tendered to a bridal party. The hearty welcome that was accorded Mr. Neff and his wife certainly was an honor and went to show that the young man is highly esteemed in the town in which he lives. And we know for ourselves that when he was a brakeman on the Valley Passenger that he was courteous and manly to the many travlers on that road. Mr. Neff carries the same good traits with him today and that is the reason he has many friends.
